My dearest Brad,
you know you are one of the sweetest (at times)
boys I have ever known.
I hope you stay that way for a long time. So we finally got an

Foreword

A tendency toward total conformity in the school atmosphere was emphasized by Crawford's large size. In order to reduce the influences of widespread similarity, membership in a variety of clubs and participation in many activities were offered to all Crawford Colts. Service to the whole student body of Crawford was open to all in varying capacities. These opportunities for leadership ranged from guiding the school as a commissioner and serving on ASB committees to representing classes in the Senate and at the Nominating Convention.

Individual achievement was encouraged in a full spectrum of interests — speech, science, music, business education, writing, physical education, and industrial, occupational, and homemaking arts. Crawford's top scholars won honors and scholarships in many fields. The athletic prowess of the school's sports teams was proved in the final league and season statistics. While boys were carrying on the school's tradition in interscholastic athletic meets, Crawford's girls also competed fiercely in sports ranging from swimming to gymnastics. The debate team was unrivaled in excellence, while in stiff competition the play productions group proved its theatrical ability. Crawford was also represented by many fine science fair winners.

With so many opportunities for pursuing outside interests every Crawford student could maintain a distinct personality and attain the status of an individual. To this end the CENTAUR staff has attempted to accurately record in words and pictures the events of the past year in a manner which has a personality all its own.

Busy Colts Enjoyed Mingling

With Friends Before Classes . . .

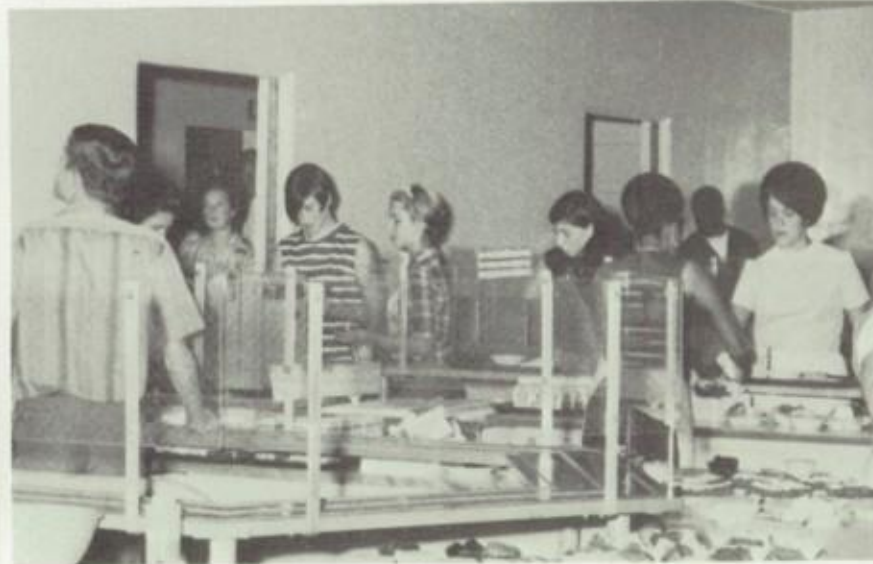

The Introductory Section pictured Crawfordites in their daily activities. Morning activities included signing up to see advisors, clearing absences in the attendance office, and showing respect to country during the playing of the national anthem. During the football season spirited Colts bought football pep ribbons.

Colts ate their lunches in the cafeteria or out-of-doors. Tickets were purchased in the financial office for sports events, movies, and many other functions. Students spent their lunch periods studying, attending movies or rallies, or just talking with friends. As the end of the lunch period neared, Colts readied themselves to resume their classes.

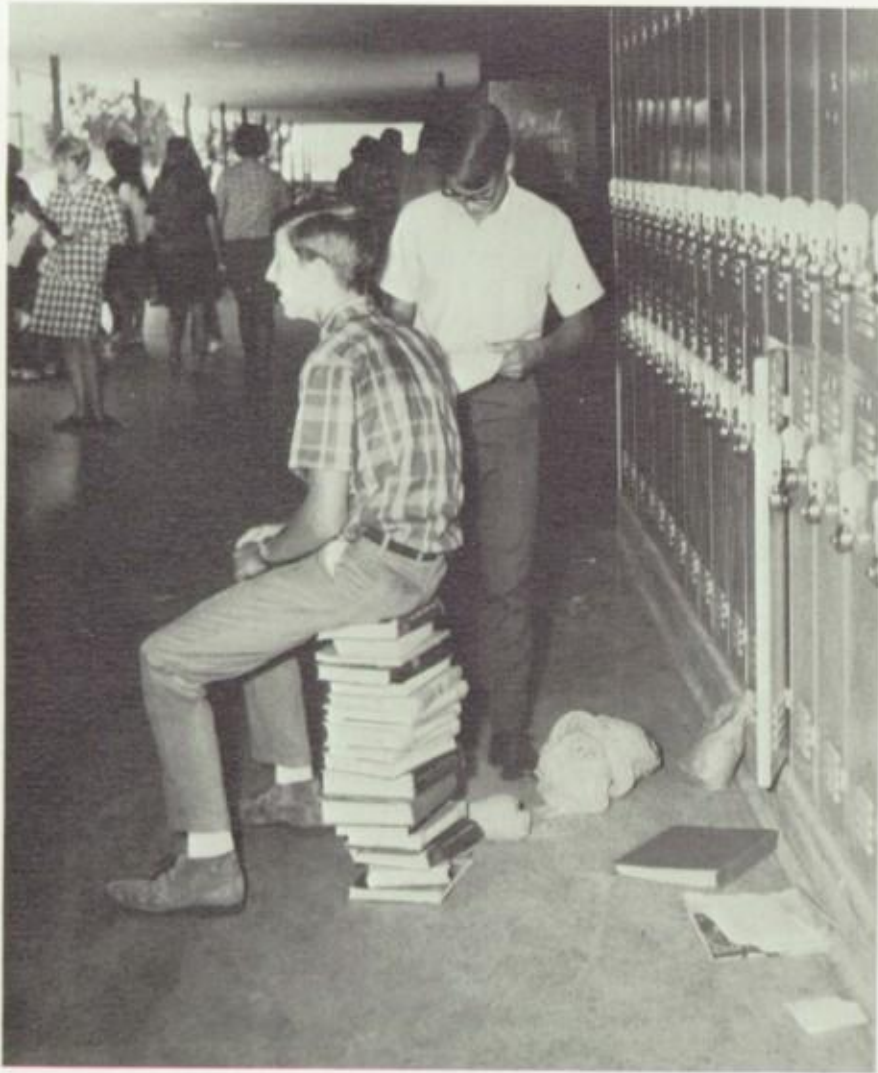

Some Colts did their homework during study halls. Others studied in the library before, during, and after school. The school emptied quickly at day's end, but some Colts stayed to attend one of the various club meetings.

smooth-running efficiency and excellent variety of school events offered.

Designed a Program to Improve Crawford

The 1967-68 Associated Student Body Council, guided by Mr. Grant Behnke, Advisor, and Steve Epstein, President, coordinated the numerous activities on the Crawford campus. They sought to provide able leadership for the students. Each facet of student life, including government, activities, representation, elections, traditions, and budget was efficiently handled by a competent and sincere commissioner. Each one had a large committee which was responsible for planning and carrying out the programs that were aimed at advancing academic and social conditions on the Crawford campus. Students were able to express any criticism of conditions at weekly "gripe sessions," and were able to communicate with the Council.

Sandy Kaupp is this year's Commissioner of Boys' Activities.

Mia Trompas, Commissioner of Girls Activities, Suzy Larson, Commissioner of Campus and Traditions, and Mr. Grant Behnke, Advisor, are vital members of the nucleus take time out from their duties as ticket Auditors to flash the friendly smiles which are usually seen through the ticket windows.

For This Year

Utilizing a new system, whereby one spokesman was selected by the senators representing each Sophomore and Junior English teacher, and Senior social studies teachers, Jamie Harrington, Vice President, revised the organization of the Crawford Senate. Meetings of the Senate were also limited to fifth period, as commissioners sought to improve the exchange between the A.S.B. Council and the students.

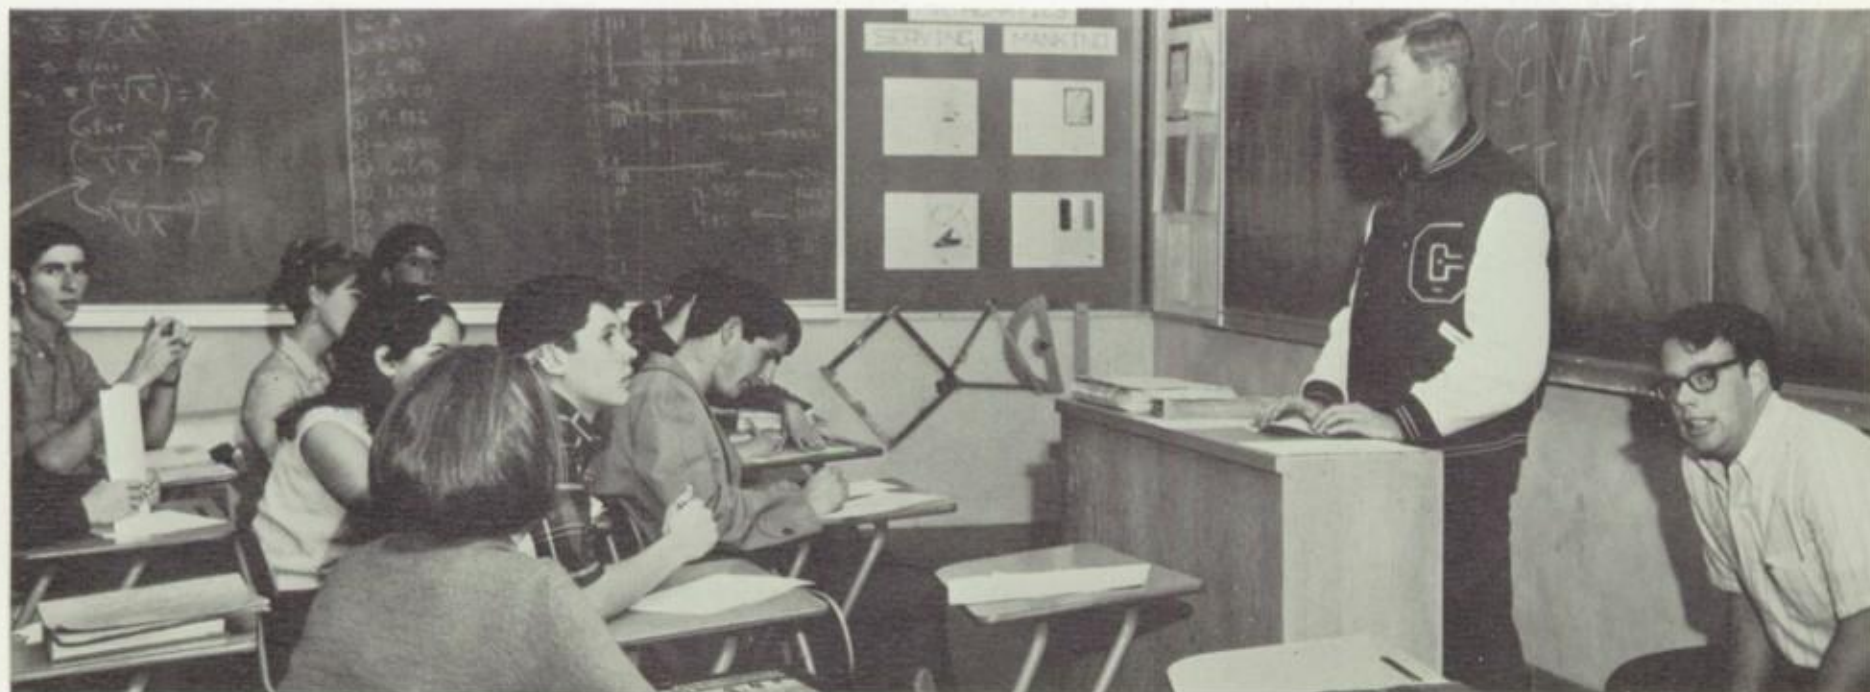

The work of the Council of commissioners was augmented by students. Two posts manned were those of Ticket Auditors and Clerks.

Ticket Auditors in 1968 were Pam Flores, Beth Gordon, and Peggy Leong. The girls were in charge of obtaining and auditing tickets, and also sold tokens for all A.S.B. and club activities throughout the year.

Andee Press, Debbie Roel, and Kathy Keeyes, A.S.B. Clerks, performed secretarial duties for the A.S.B. Council. Some of these services included the taking of minutes at all A.S.B. meetings and carrying on correspondence.

Jamie Harrington, A.S.B. Vice President, leads a discussion of the plans for the exchange programs and the Groove-In, while Steve Epstein waits to talk about senior activities. The reports of the senators to the classes help inform Colts about the plans of the A.S.B.

The Student Affairs Committee, led by Cyndi Mitton, is a very talented and diverse group of Colts, intent on maintaining the excellent quality of activities enjoyed at Crawford Planning and directing school events is its major function.

Efficiency and Creativity

The Inter-Club Council, administered by Cyndi Mitton, Commissioner of Student Affairs, was comprised of representatives from all campus organizations. The twenty-five members of the I.C.C. included all club presidents, and representatives from the Sophomore, Junior, and Senior Class Councils. I.C.C. members coordinated club activities and sales, and class functions throughout the year. The I.C.C. also directed Colts' Capers, a yearly all-school talent show. In charge of the Caravan of Floats at Homecoming, I.C.C. representatives led the school in spirited observance of the Crawford Homecoming, 1967.

Cyndi Mitton presided over the more than forty members of the Student Affairs Committee. In charge of many events during the year, the committee planned extremely successful functions. Included were: Orientation; Club Week, when new and old clubs were formed or reorganized; Homecoming, 1967; and the A.S.B. Ball. Understandably, Cyndi and her committee worked almost constantly to organize the numerous activities sponsored by the A.S.B.

Cyndi Mitton, I.C.C. President, and Doug Smith, Junior Class President, model appropriate A.S.B. Ball attire at the orientation.

Suzy Larson, Campus and Traditions, and Frank Apgar, Elections, provide entertainment at the orientation assembly in September.

The Inter-Club Council is one of the most vital campus organizations. Through the efforts of the individual club representatives

Suzy Larson, with the eager help of her Campus and Traditions Committee, launched several successful campaigns to keep the campus a beautiful place to be. This dynamic group of hard-working students work long to maintain school traditions and start new ones.

Helped Committees Succeed

Crawford trash cans receive a bright new outlook on life.

Crawford is able to sponsor the many worthwhile events which provide opportunities for involvement and also build funds.

The Campus and Traditions Committee, under the able leadership of Commissioner Suzy Larson, served the school unceasingly, improving campus conditions. In their fight against litter, and to make trash cans more attractive, the committee spent hours painting them red, white, and blue. Also sponsored was Clean Campus Week, with a popularity contest between class and A.S.B. advisors. The advisor receiving the most trash in his can was named Mr. Clean. Suzy Larson was also responsible for continuing school traditions, and for keeping a scrapbook of school history.

Sue Reisman and Ann Germeraad put the final touches on the Colt which Sue created for the Student Affairs Committee.

The Publications Committee is responsible for designing many of the colorful and zippy bulletin boards seen around campus.

The lively and exuberant smiles of the Rallies and Assemblies Committee reflect the spirit and enthusiasm they incorporate

Capable A.S.B. Committees

The Publications Committee, headed by Sue Burnight, was responsible for all school publications. This meant painting hundreds of brightly-colored banners, directing the publicity campaigns of the many clubs, providing the idea for art work for other committees, and writing informative bulletins. This lively and creative group was the stimulus needed for increasing student participation in the varied activities around school. Big events, like the A.S.B. Ball, Homecoming, and the Nominating Convention, and smaller ones such as candy sales and movies were all widely publicized through the continuous efforts of the committee members. Many hours were put in before and after school preparing the much-appreciated publicity.

The exciting and spirited personalities of the Rallies and Assemblies Committee members were evident in the unique and entertaining programs which they presented in the school year of '67-'68. The time and energy, along with genuine creative talent, which went into the frequent rallies produced some of the most lively "spirit-makers" to be seen at Crawford. The fantastically successful Groove-In was a completely new experience in entertainment. It featured folk singers and rock bands and groups. The appreciation of the audience could be felt in the genuine respect shown for the efforts of the performers. Informative assemblies were presented and were widely attended by the interested groups of students at Crawford.

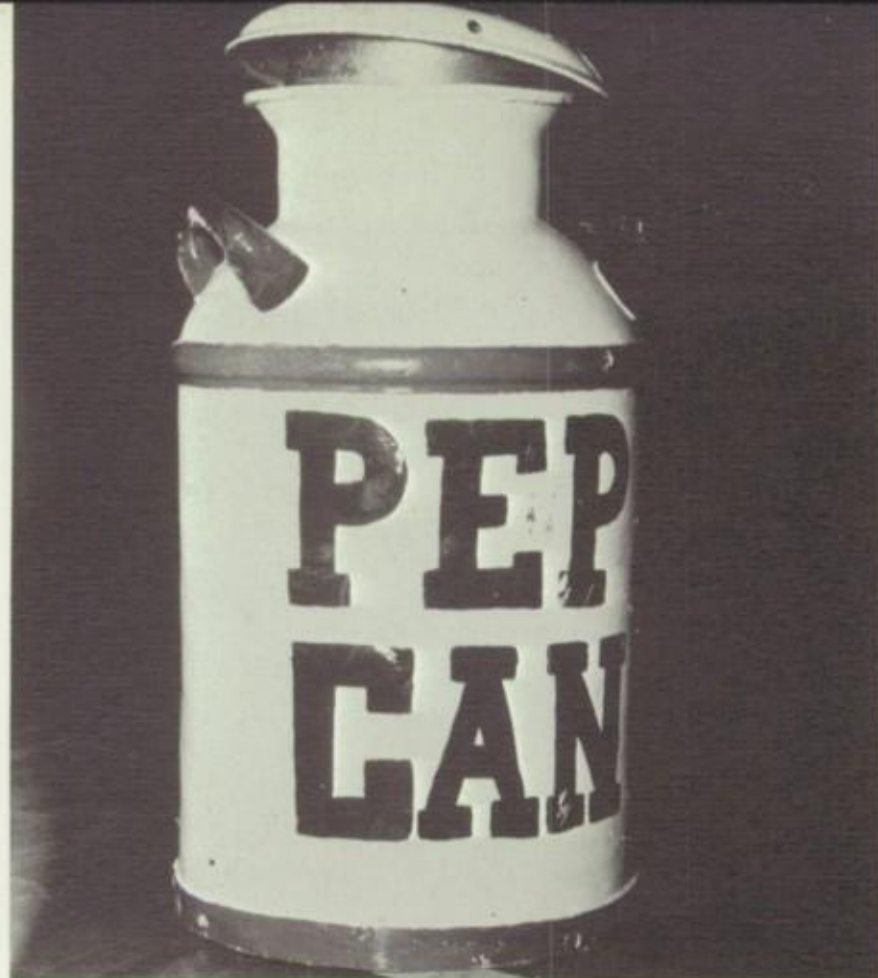

Sue Burnight brought new ideas to the Publications Committee this year, and all the valuable members strive to maintain publicity of Crawford activities. Exciting posters and banners, some designed by the group, often brighten the campus landscape.

into their programs. Excitement and warmth are a part of the success of this group, led by Commissioner Ann Germeraad.

The Pep Can is usually bubbling over with enthusiasm and spirit. If the lid is lifted the excited Colts' voices come spilling out.

Met Many New Challenges

Frank Apgar, Commissioner of Elections, led a highly efficient committee made up of concerned students. They were interested in strengthening student appreciation of democratic ideals while increasing participation in the numerous elections throughout the year. Directing class elections and arranging for the school-wide selection of song and cheerleaders were only a few of their jobs. The really big event, the Nominating Convention, took months of planning, from advising candidates on individual campaigns to designing handbooks and organizing the day-long program of campaigning, lobbying, nominating, and voting to place candidates on the ballot. An enormous amount of work was put out to make this event extremely popular.

The secret ballot box represents the voting privileges used by concerned students at Crawford High School.

Frank Apgar, Commissioner of Elections, heads this group of students who are vitally interested in maintaining proper election conditions. Organizing the annual Nominating Convention, they try to increase interest and participation in elections.

The Boys' Federation was a small but important part of the school government. The yearly Fall dance, Kolts' Kick Off, was co-sponsored by the Federation and Girls League. The group presented a car show in December and arranged a bicycle safety check at the local elementary schools. Led by Sandy Kaupp, Commissioner of Boys' Activities, the boys offered services wherever needed and maintained the traditions and excellent standards of past years at Crawford.

The CENTAUR staff could relax. After so many long hours of sometimes tedious work, the photographic record of the 1967-68 Crawford year was finished. The CENTAUR captured the spirited and exciting atmosphere and put it into words and pictures. The confused look of the Sophomores, the joy of the Homecoming queen, a teacher's familiar face, and the crowd at a Colts' football game were recorded. Under the guidance of Editor-in-Chief, Carol Knott, and Advisor, Mr. Linderman, the staff was able to produce a lively and exceptional record of life which won yearly awards in national yearbook competition.

The newspaper's photographers, Jeff Young, Joe Coha, George Garrison, and Vince Massullo, capture the spirit of Crawford.

The PACER was the best high school newspaper in the city. Produced bi-weekly, the variety of articles satisfied all tastes. Recognition was given to the many outstanding students and organizations including the speech and math teams. Editorials sought to stimulate enthusiasm for student participation in worldly affairs, and reports on college requirements and A.S.B. Council activities were given. Activities such as class elections, the Science Fair, and Girls' League and Boys' Federation service projects were publicized. The Sports page had a new feature this year, thought-provoking essays designed for strengthening confidence in the various athletic teams. The entire PACER staff worked unceasingly to present an accurate and excellent account of daily student life and to keep the Crawford Colts well informed about school happenings. Katy McGuire, Editor-in-Chief, along with Mr. Bill Rieker, Advisor, managed to coordinate the numerous phases of producing a school paper. The resulting PACER reflected the time and hard work put in by all the capable editors and their invaluable assistants.

This year, there were co-chairmanships: Debbie Tadman and Debbie Mitton, social chairmen; and Tama Goen and Debra Craig, publicity chairmen.

Other sophomore chairmen Terry Fong, budget; Jackie Brookler, elections; Jim Kalleberg, ways and means; Marsi Silverman, historian; Diana Michaels, traditions; Leslie Ma, programs; and Leslie Sanders, homecoming float, worked individually and as a unit in mastering the problems of their class.

This year's Sophomore Class Council showed fine participation and worked fluidly despite its size.

Sophomores were advised by Mr. Morley Tadman.

Classmates

The Class of 1970 started off its sophomore year with the election and selection of capable officers and committee chairmen. Mr. Morley Tadman served the class in the capacity of advisor. Student leaders included Bill Coady, president; Judy Mc Lean, vice president; Linda Blake, secretary; and Cheryl Blount, treasurer. Many vital aspects of class organization were arranged by the enthusiastic chairmen, Debra Craig, Tama Goen, Terry Fong, Debbie Mitton, Debbie Tadman, Jackie Brookler, Marsi Silverman, Leslie Sanders, Jim Kalleberg, Diana Michaels, and Leslie Ma.

J.V. Songleader tryouts typified the enthusiasm of Sophomore girls.

Those who attend the class party indulge themselves in various activities.

A portion of the Class of 1970 first met at the Girls' League-sponsored Sophomore Tea, the first of the year's activities. The new high school students soon elected class officers and Junior Varsity Songleaders, Melinda Solberg, Donna Tice, Kathy McCoy, and Denise Daniels. The Sophomore Homecoming float, "J.V. Football Is One of Our Favorite Things," was constructed under the supervision of Leslie Sanders. The fund-raising movie, "Bad Day at Black Rock," was arranged by Jim Kalleberg, ways and means chairman. Later in the year Debbie Mitton and Debbie Tadman directed "Crawford's Kiddie Kapers," the Sophomore Class Party.

Activities

were well rewarded with a fast-moving and high-spirited party.

Mr. Sam Turner was the Junior's advisor.

Able Officers Were Keys to

The Junior Class cabinet contributed greatly toward the continued ascent of the Class of 1969. The unqualified enthusiasm and spirit displayed by Sophomores in their first year of high school life matured into the responsible and diligent attitude of the Junior Class. Serving his class as chief executive was Doug Smith. The many other duties of the class cabinet were distributed among vice president, Rick Alter; secretary, Jeanne Kopecky; and treasurer, Shari Meinert. While Mr. Samuel Turner served the class as advisor, a dozen committee chairmen augmented the work of the class officers. Major chairmen included Marc Kobernick, concessions; Debbie Penn and Debbie Brandenberger, junior ball; Karen Smith, elections; Robin Long, publicity; and Carolyn Hall, ways and means.

Juniors came out in hordes to buy their Senior Rings at the end of January, and the procedure was run smoothly, thanks to the leadership of Sherri McCormack.

The junior concessions stand, headed by Marc Kobernick thoroughly but amicably served Colts and visitors alike at the home games.

The committee chairmen were: Marc Kobernick, concessions; Ned Himmel, homecoming float; Sherri McCormack, Senior Rings; Jan Marholin, bulletin board; Laurie Luttbeg, Sun-Up breakfast; Cathy Pasas, historian.

Success of Juniors

Class chairmen, counter-clockwise from left: Karen Smith, elections; Debbie Penn and Debbie Brandenberger, junior ball; Carolyn Hall, ways and means; Phil Kossy, budget; and Robin Long, publicity, served as representatives of their junior classmates, coordinating activities throughout the year.

Shari Meinert, Treasurer; Jeanne Kopecky, Secretary; Rick Alter, Vice President; and Doug Smith, President, L. to R., constituted an active executive cabinet.

A large and appreciative audience wisely spends the second half of four lunch periods attending "39 Steps," a fund-raising movie for the Junior Class.

Juniors Had Unprecedented

The Junior Class prepared for further school leadership and influence while it organized a large variety of activities. Ned Himmel headed up a group of hard-working Juniors who constructed the Junior Homecoming Float, "The Turning of the Rings." Money raising was an especially important part of the year's activity planning. The Class of 1969 sponsored two movies, "The Unsinkable Molly Brown" and

"Thirty-Nine Steps," held a brownie sale, sold candy and cold drinks at basketball games, and peddled confetti at the Nominating Convention. Senior rings chairman Sherri McCormack supervised the selection of a new ring style. At the year's end the Junior Class presented "Aldela," meaning "that which cannot be expressed." Held on May 10, the formal dance featured "Sandi and the Classics."

In progress, the Junior float receives the undivided attention of many inspired workers.

"The Turning of the Rings," a major Junior event, is the theme of their floral Homecoming float.

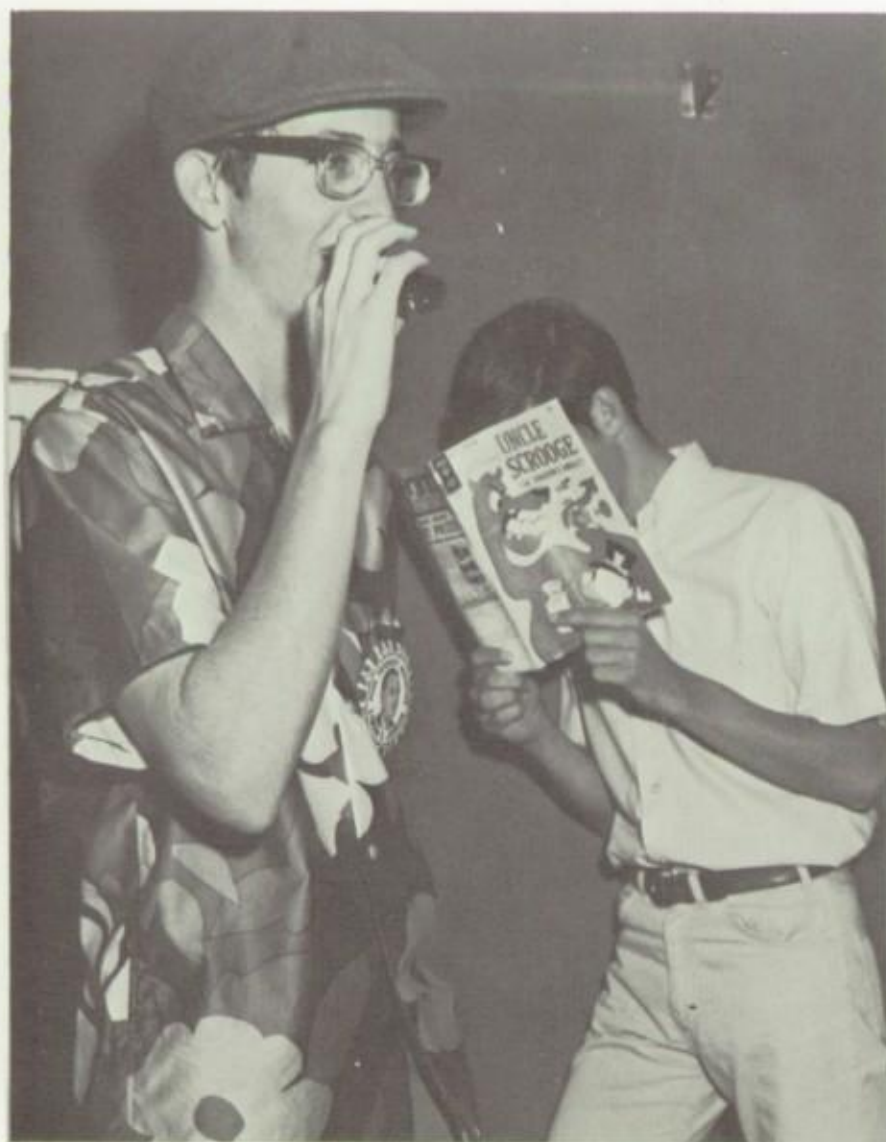

Reigning Junior Attendant Terry Potter adds considerably to the aura of this year's Homecoming activities.

Active Colts Kicked-Off Busy

Activities during Orientation Week gave both new and returning students a chance to readjust to school life. The Sophomore Tea helped tenth grade girls get acquainted with their new school. They attended a fashion show, viewed a routine by drill team members, and were introduced to song and cheer leaders. The A.S.B. Orientation Assembly presented administrators, student government commissioners, foreign exchange students, and song and cheer leaders to all members of the student body. Colts were also advised on appropriate school dress and forthcoming functions of interest. Kolts Kick-off, the first dance of the school year to be held in the gym, offered an opportunity for new and old friends to meet, dance, and socialize in a relaxed and informal atmosphere.

Enthusiasm, amazement, enjoyment, and concentration are some of the varied emotions displayed on faces of the Colt dancers at get-acquainted dance.

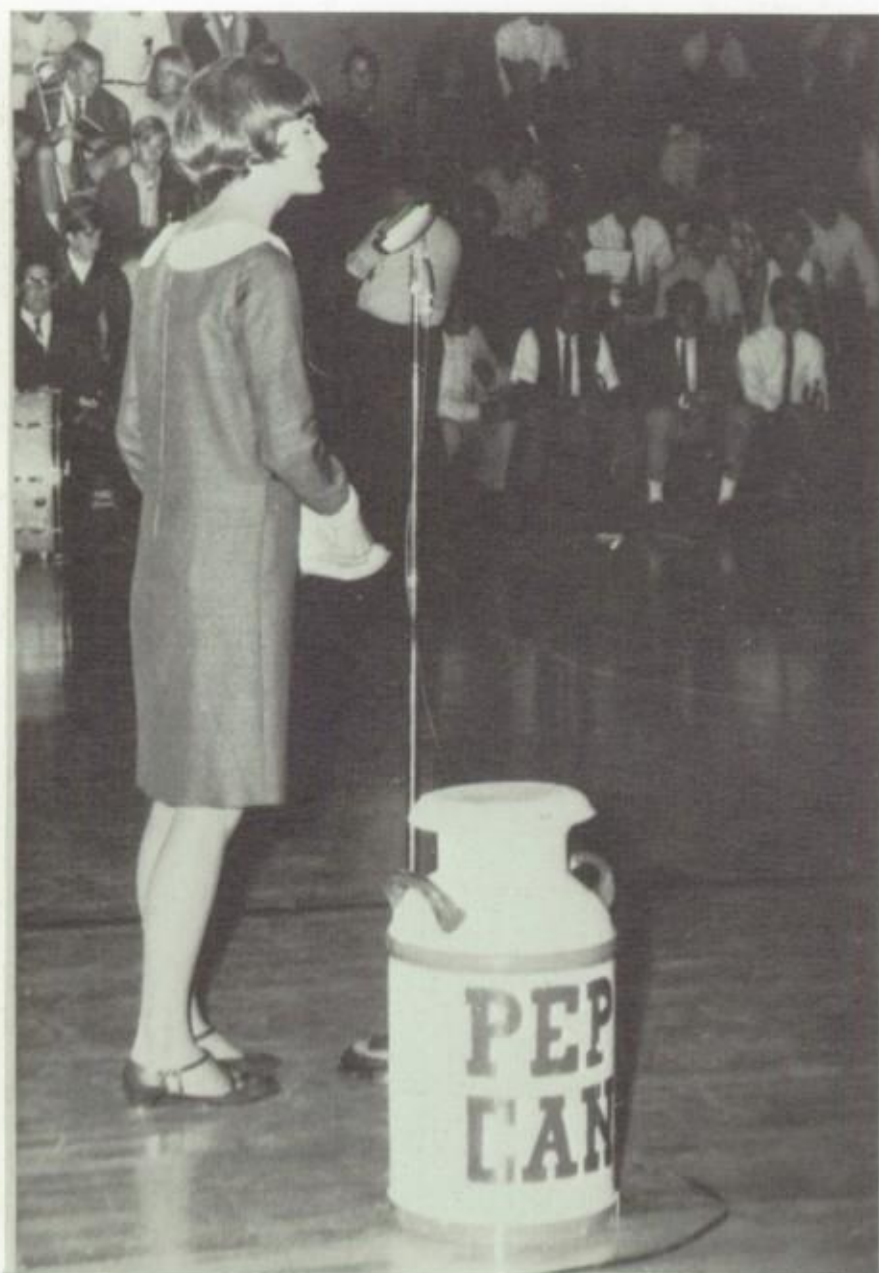

Autumn Rallies and Dances Encouraged School Spirit

Colts enjoy dancing to the music of local bands at the after game dances.

Crawford's Fall and Winter rallies, held every two weeks during all three lunch periods, promoted unequalled exuberance throughout the student body. Creative skits presented at all rallies set the mood, while new and original victory shouts in addition to old favorites were led by song and cheer leaders, encouraging spirit and pep. Colts were also given the opportunity to meet Crawford's football, gymnastics, cross-country, wrestling, and basketball teams, also viewing sports demonstrations at the rallies. At the end of lunch periods students left the gym full of enthusiasm and hope for a Crawford victory.

After-game dances, under the sponsorship of the P.T.A., were held in the gym following home football games. The two hour dances, held from 10-12 p.m., served as a favorite meeting place as victories were celebrated and defeats bemoaned. One of the P.T.A.'s most important services to the school, the after-game dances gave students a chance to talk and socialize with friends in a congenial atmosphere. Many popular local bands performed all types of music for the never-tiring and always spirited Colts.

Commissioner of Rallies and Assemblies, Ann Germeraad, was responsible for organizing rallies, always emphasizing spirit and participation.

The song and cheer leaders, chosen from a large group of prospective pep leaders, carried out their goal of promoting spirit, instilling enthusiasm, and encouraging spectator involvement at school athletic events. The addition of girl cheerleaders to the pep squad reflected a trend toward a more collegiate atmosphere. Duties of the song and cheer leaders entailed attending all football and basketball games, and participating in rallies, assemblies, and other school functions. The pep squad also promoted friendship and good will between schools by visiting the opposition to lead cheers for their team. This was an especially important responsibility, as their image could have altered inter-school attitudes. The five cheer leaders, Donna Gregston, Dianne Beighley, Dave Buehner, Larry Foster, and Bev Bentson; and Christie Garrison, Julee Hansell, Lynn Hayes, Donna Penn, and Linda Sisson, songleaders, worked all year to put the spotlight on the crowd, the real support of the Crawford athletic teams.

Eligible voters holding Stir-Ups cards made their choice known in balloting during lunch periods. Qualifications for Mr. and Miss Pep were limited to showing school spirit and pep at all rallies and games. Winners of the election were announced at the Homecoming Rally on Friday, November 17. Named Miss and Mr. Pep were Maggie Marshall and Dave Buehner. Attendants included Andee Press and Rick Fenell, Donna Buss and Rod Boone, and Leslie McClure and Bill Cody. Mr. Football for 1967 was Fred Covina. Jamie Harrington and Earl Altshuler were named runners-up.

Sportsmanship

The Crawford Colt was brought to life during the 1967-68 school year by Louis Schwartzberg and Jim McElwee. Jose Medina served as an alternate in the event of sickness or previous obligations. These boys served Crawford as its spirited mascot and attempted at all times to promote enthusiasm at all rallies and sports events. Louis, Jim, and Jose spent long hours practicing and perfecting their routines. Their diligent work was rewarded as spectators were entertained by the antics of the Colt. The 1967-68 Colt was the first mascot in Crawford history to negotiate a side roll. The success of the Crawford Colt's hard work was reflected in the highly spirited Crawford student body.

An Exciting Week Preceded

Homecoming Week, following Crawford tradition, was filled with numerous exciting events. Launching the week of festivities was the initiation of the week-long Girls' League Mum Sale. Tuesday brought continued spirit-building with the annual Stir-Ups Powder Puff Bowl. Appearing in team uniforms, girls chosen for their school spirit and enthusiasm competed in a mock football game during lunch. Donut Dunk-Em started Wednesday off, as early risers were treated to a seven o'clock breakfast of donuts and cocoa, and entertained by the Pep Band. The election of Mr. and Mrs. Pep and Mr. Football for 1967 took place during lunch. Judging at the end of the day selected the most spirited home room class at Crawford, following a classroom decorating contest to encourage Homecoming liveliness. The long day ended with the Honorary Service Society reunion. On Thursday, Crawford football highlights on film were shown in the auditorium. Leading up to the climax of the week, the Friday rallies inspired spirit and instilled enthusiasm in the entire student body.

Aurora's float, "Service is One of Our Favorite Things" wins second place.

Pre-game festivities began at seven o'clock in Aztec Stadium, preceding the Homecoming game. The eighteen entries in the Caravan of Floats were paraded around the field for judging by a panel of six administrators and teachers. Floats were judged on overall image, construction, theme, originality, and presentation. The top three floats carrying out the theme, "These are My Favorite Things," were announced at half-time. Also presented were the Alumni Queens of 1966 and 1962, the Sophomore and Junior attendants, the three Queen candidates, Crawford's two foreign exchange students, and Cyndi Mitton, Commissioner of Student Affairs. Also participating in the pre-game field activities were the Band and Drill Team, who, in addition, performed a musical routine at half-time.

Half - time Festivities Highlighted Homecoming

Smiling regally, Queen Sue reigns over Homecoming half-time festivities.

Following Crawford tradition, a Homecoming Queen and Court were chosen to reign over the 1967 Homecoming. An attendant from both the Sophomore and Junior classes was elected during the week preceding the Homecoming game, as were three Queen candidates. Crowned as Queen during half-time was Sue Romero. Her attending Court included Seniors Jennifer Jones and Marne Olson, Junior Terry Potter, and Sophomore Diana Kirk.

Carrying out the theme of "These Are a Few of My Favorite Things," the eighteen entries in the Caravan of Floats featured many original and exciting ideas. The floats were judged on the basis of theme, originality, construction, presentation, and form. Receiving a trophy for first place was the American Field Service friendship float. Second and third place floats were constructed by the Auroras Honorary Service Society and the Orchestra.

The A. F. S. float wins first place in the Caravan of Floats judging.

traditional Christmas music at the Seasonal Music Concert in December.

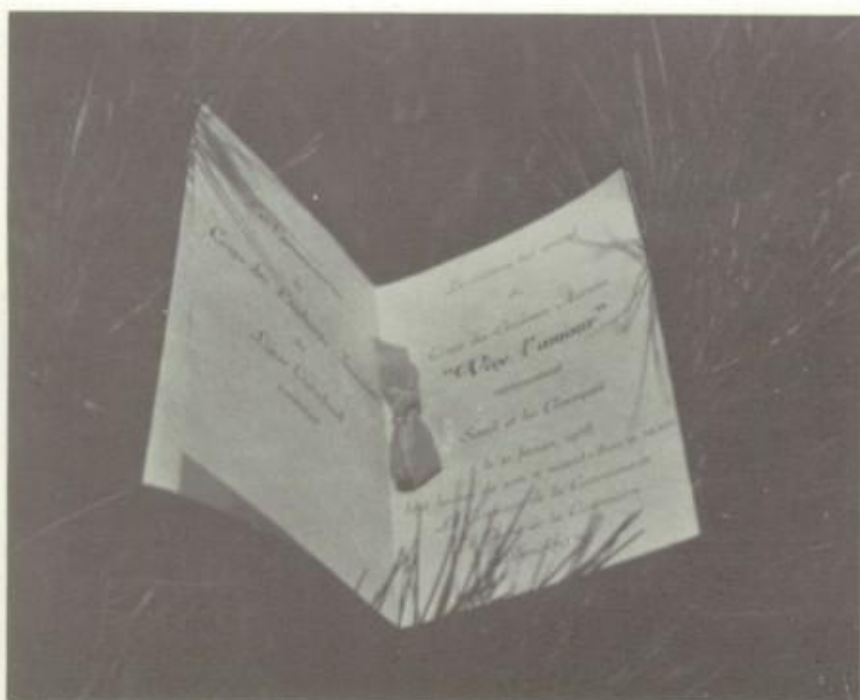

The all-school play, "THE JURY," was received well throughout its run. Two afternoon performances were offered early in the week, while two more evening productions completed the week. In mid-December the choral department and Concert Band combined their musical talents to present three concerts of seasonal music. Two of these concerts were given on December 12 and 13 during lunch periods. A third nighttime concert featured musical selections of traditional nature. The Girls' League launched its annual fund-raising function, an intra-school mailbox, a week before winter vacation. The improvised postal system handled a mountain of bargain mail as Colts supported a worthy organization with one-cent postal rates. All mail was delivered to homeroom classes on Friday, December 15. On January 25, the play production class presented "DAVID AND LISA" by James Reach. Student director of this "circle-in-the-square" production was Ellen Newman. Main characters in the biannual presentation were Bernie Meyer, Marley Days, Greg Bear, and Carolyn Myers. Proceeds from the selling of tickets were distributed between the Honorary Service Society, the Thespians, and royalty payments. The Thespians offered a series of plays in their One-Act Play Festival. The first play, "HIS AND HERS," was viewed during lunches on January 5. "BALCONY SCENE," was presented on February 2. These productions were student-directed by Terry Green.

The annual Associated Student Body Ball, entitled "Vive L'Amour," was held in the Convention Center of the Community Concourse on February 21, 1968. Couples in attendance danced to the popular music of "Sandi and the Classics" from 8 to 12 p.m. The date's proximity to Valentine's Day was emphasized by the heart-shaped couple cards and foyer entrance, and by the pink, white, and gold decor. An Eiffel Tower suspended behind the bandstand reflected the French theme of love and romance. Fountains in the entrance foyer and flower carts on tables filled with tiny pink, white, and blue paper nosegays were other decorative touches designed to carry out the ball's theme. This memorable evening was recorded on film as couples posed throughout the night for a professional photographer.

On March 28, 1968, Crawford held its Twelfth Annual Nominating Convention. Commissioner Frank Apgar began proceedings at 9:00 a.m. in the gaily decorated school gymnasium. A brief speech by Mr. George Perry formally opened the business of the convention and was followed shortly by the guest speaker. San Diego Congressman Lionel Van Deerlin delivered a stirring address to lend authority to the day's democracy-building experiences. Throughout the day skits and speeches were presented on behalf of all A.S.B. candidates. Representative delegates then voted to eliminate all but two candidates in each category for placement on the final ballot. Attempting to sway delegate opinions, lobbyists schemed, persuaded, and collaborated in caucus sessions. Balloting resumed after an hour-long lunch break to trim the slate to the required length. At long last, after a full day of practicing the precepts of American government, convention participants were adjourned at 6:00 p.m.

Monthly Honor for Achievements

Eight Senior girls were elected throughout the 1967-68 school year to be Girl of the Month. Conferred by the Girls' League, the Girl of the Month award honored active participation in school life and leadership. Mia Trompas, Girls' League President and Commissioner of Girls' Activities, became the first Girl of the Month. November saw the election of Ann Germeraad, Commissioner of Rallies and Assemblies, to the coveted position. Kathi McGurn, Red Cross President and member of the Honorary Service Society, was honored for the month of December. Chosen in January as the month's outstanding coed was Elizabeth Williamson, Senior Prom Chairman, Centaur Senior Editor, and a member of H.S.S. Carolyn Myers, A.F.S. President, Centaur Write-ups Editor, and H.S.S. member, was Crawford's valentine. March was the favorite month of coed Andee Press, A.S.B. Clerk and Senior Class Party Chairman. April Showers brought Linda Best, Pacer Editor and member of H.S.S., the news of her selection as Girl of the Month. As her high school career drew to a close Becky Overton, A.S.B. Treasurer, was honored as May's Girl of the Month.

Selected from a slate of five active girls, Ann Germeraad was chosen to be Crawford's 1968 Coed of the Year. Ann served Crawford in the A.S.B. and in the Girls' League.

The Boys' Federation elected Fred Covina October's Athlete of the Month. Fred was noted for his performance as fullback of Crawford's football team. Oscar Andrade, cited for his achievements in track and cross-country running, became November's star athlete. December's finest athlete was Rob McCutcheon, an outstanding Crawford gymnast. His efforts helped Crawford's fine team to again take first place in Eastern League. Joe Tice, captain of the wrestling team, was noted as January Athlete of the Month for his third-place finish in CIF competition. Joe competed in the 130-pound class. Honored in February was Crawford basketball guard, Glenn Skirvin. Selected as March's Athlete of the Month was track star John Neun. Boys' Federation chose Mike Pieratt as the most inspirational athlete during April. Mike sparked the efforts of Crawford's baseball team. Noted as athlete for March was Miles Weaver. The swimming squad's outstanding season record was in large part due to this swimmer's accomplishments.

The President, Bob Dise, leads the active German Club in the promotion of several sales, parties and soccer games, completing a successful year.

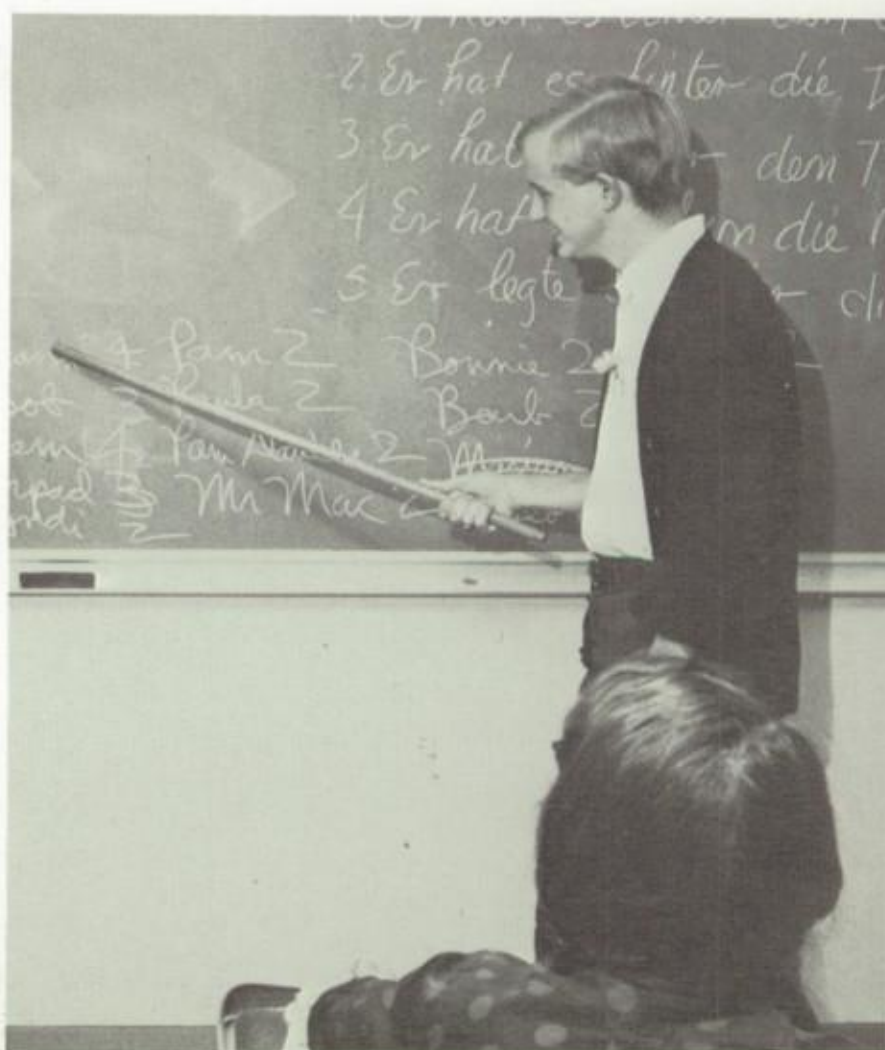

Languages Came Alive through

German Club members frequently play a soccer game after a meeting.

The German Club successfully associated interested students with the customs, activities, and holidays of the German people. Mr. Marion McAnear and Mr. Lothar Reuss served the club as co-sponsors. The fifty members of the German Club were guided by capable officers, Bob Dise, Karen Cochran, Cyndi Jones, Paula Sylvia, and Katy McGuire. Activities sponsored throughout the year were soccer games, trips to Little Bavaria, and a costume party,

Active Clubs

Mike Martin, Lary Mahr, and Mike Judd, directed the club's large membership. The many completed functions included several beach parties, a banquet, a decathlon, a Hades party, and a Saturnalia.

La Ronda, the Spanish Club, promoted the interest of over thirty members in the Spanish language and in Spanish-speaking peoples. Christie Hersey and Judy Bassock with the help of co-sponsors, Mrs. Ruth Burrows and Mr. Gerald Newall, planned club functions. A membership picnic, a trip to Padua Hills, fund-raising sales, and lectures and films were among the year's activities.

Active members of La Ronda meet every other Thursday in Room 108.

Enthusiastic Latin Club members enriched their group with an exciting year of many activities under the sponsorship of Mrs. MacMaster.

Health Clubs Oriented to Service

Members of Health Careers Club are interested in the field of medicine.

Mrs. Ladelle Crane sponsored the Health Careers Clubs following the departure of Mrs. Katherine Hunter for Brazil. Officers Nancy Adams and Christine Sandoval led the club's fifteen members as they became familiar with medical careers and their educational opportunities. The Health Careers Club visited the Corpsman Training School at Balboa Naval Hospital, toured a Naval sick-bay, participated in the San Diego Health Fair, and completed a service project.

The Crawford Red Cross Chapter sponsored campaigns to raise money for service projects. Club guidance was contributed by Mrs. Ellen Perkins and Kathi McGurn, Roger Dickson, Corrine Brown, and Liz Lee, executive officers.

Mr. Morley Tadman and Terry Green, Jon McGuffin, Liz Malkind, and Steve Bishop, first semester officers, re-organized the Thespians into an active, functioning amateur theater group. While learning acting, directing, and staging techniques, the twenty club members gained valuable experience. Second semester officers, Jon McGuffin, Rick Pfleeger, and Sharon Whitley, continued the work of their predecessors. Among the theatrical activities carried out by the Thespians were a One-Act Play Festival, a performance of "SLEEPING BEAUTY" for the Children's Hospital, and a talk by Old Globe Theatre director, Craig Noel. The club also sponsored the production of "DAVID AND LISA."

Y-Teens Held Many Events

Through service projects, activities, social events, and money-raising projects, the Sophomore Y-Teens sought to mature in understanding while developing a willingness to help others and a wholesome moral attitude. The sixty members of the club were led by a competent cabinet of officers. Leaders included Leslie McClure, president; Bonnie Miner, vice president; Terri Fong, secretary; Helen Bruce, treasurer; and Kathy McCoy, historian. Several other chairmen and representatives completed the Y-Teen cabinet. Meeting at Seminole Center on alternate Tuesdays, members planned several functions including a UNICEF collection drive, a car wash, and assorted parties.

At meetings, conducted by President Leslie McClure, the girls discuss projects.

vice Projects and Socialbility

Joan Beck, Debbie Dickson, Nancy Kidder, Terry Larsen, and Elizabeth Hill in their official capacities led the twenty-five Senior Y-Teens members. This organization attempted to create a friendly atmosphere with girls of all ages and backgrounds. The Senior Y-Teens worked with underprivileged children, contributed gifts to a Tijuana orphanage, and planned "Mistle Toe and Bells," their annual dance.

The girls plan future service projects during a business meeting.

One of the main projects of the Senior Y-Teens is Mistletoe and Bells.

Students Dedicated to Teaching

The Future Teachers of America strove to fulfill a fourfold goal. Major aims were to acquaint interested and qualified students with the duties and rewards of the teaching profession, to develop an understanding of the preparation program for teaching, to promote a fuller appreciation of the school's role in society, and to encourage college attendance and educational careers. This club was affiliated with the California Teachers' Association. Mrs. Mari-Anne Cover and Mr. John Carman served as sponsors for the twenty-six-membered club. Leaders of the Future Teachers of America included Beverly Eichelberger, president; Cynthia Yelvington, vice president; Marsha Miller, secretary; Greg Estep, treasurer.

The Future Teachers of America is a club whose members plan to follow a career in the educational field. President of the club is Beverly Eichelberger.

The Crawford High Lettermen's Club is constitutional of boys who have earned a letter in any sport. Their purpose is to promote the athletic department.

"Service" Key Word in Clubs

Lettermen form cheering section encouraging players at a basketball game.

To assist and to serve the athletic department of Crawford High School in the promotion and the development of all athletic activities was the guiding purpose of the Crawford Lettermen's Club. Led by Mr. James Sams, sponsor, and officers Randy Loch and Earl Altshuler, the club's seventy members contributed the income from varied projects to support their goal. Included in the club's activities were the sale of pep ribbons and the Senior-Faculty Basketball Game.

Mr. Forbes Dickinson served as sponsor of the Crawford High School Key Club. An offshoot of the parent Kiwanis organization, the Key Club was formed to serve the community and school through understanding by involvement. Club members served at the Dad and Daughter Banquet in February and participated in several bicycle safety checks at area elementary schools.

The Key Club conducts a variety of activities including a car smash, service at the Dad-Daughter Banquet and bicycle checks at elementary schools.

"World Friendship" AFS Oath

The American Field Service, a worldwide organization, promoted international friendship and sponsored foreign exchange students, while working toward better understanding between the nations of the world. The sixty members of the A.F.S., under the guidance of Mr. Wagner, formed one of the most active, spirited, and responsible clubs of its kind in the history of Crawford High. Leaders of the organization included Carolyn Meyers, president; Peggy Halfaker, vice president; Helen Harvey, secretary; Melissa McGinnis, historian; Tom Pabst, treasurer; and several committee chairmen. Among the many functions planned throughout the year were the traditional Pie Night at Open House, an old-fashioned Halloween Party, complete with apple bobbing and pumpkin carving, the sale of A.F.S. Friendship Bonds, and a Christmas party. In addition, the busy club found time to produce the winning float at Homecoming.

The A.F.S. Club enjoys a potluck dinner in Wesley Methodist Church.

Pie Night is an annual money raising event held during Open House.

Home Games

The Pacer-ettes truly accomplished their goal of providing entertainment and inspiring spirit at Crawford football games. Strenuous training began during the summer, continuing constantly with practice after school at least three times a week. Instruction was led by Mrs. Keefer and Miss Lozier, while officers included Ann Rover, colonel; Irma Groot, major; Jennifer Jones, first captain; and second, third, and fourth captains, Linda Francis, Janet Lunn, and Jan Robinson. Performing in musical routines with the marching band, the Pacer-ettes showed their prowess, agility, and stamina. Their many hours of practice were evident when the Pacer-ettes demonstrated routines at November's Open House, at the spirited Homecoming rally, and throughout their three shows at Crawford's home football games. However, the Pacer-ettes experienced their greatest triumph when they displayed a season's training with their final performance at the homecoming game.

Ann Rover, Jan Robinson, Irma Groot, Jennifer Jones, Janet Lund and Linda Frances, the officers, lead the many performances of the drill team.

Beautifully done performances given by the rhythmic Pacer-ettes, which are a great asset to our school, contribute much to our homecoming rally.

Band Added

The Crawford High School Band, or Band Club, under the musical leadership of Mr. Foster, sought to fulfill several objectives throughout the past year. Their goals included providing musical service to the school, advancing cultural activities in the school and community, developing the individual musicianship of the members of the club, and offering financial aid to the instrumental music department. The seventy members of the Band Club were led and represented by several officers. These included Donna Mador, president; Marcia Leight, vice president; Sue Kiley, treasurer; Peggy Halfaker, senior representative; Bob Hart, junior representative; and George Sorenson, drum major. Among the many services to students rendered by the band were seasonal concerts and musical half-time shows in formation at all Crawford home football games. Leading the Band Club members through musical routines were George Sorenson, drum major, and Sue Kiley, assistant drum majorette. George was chosen because of his band participation in his sophomore year, while Sue Kiley, a third year band student, was selected on the basis of her superior marching ability and baton handling.

During half-time shows, twirlers Mike Gray, Kathy Rump, and Carol Montgomery displayed their uncanny skills. Colts were indeed proud of Mike, a veteran twirler of ten years; Carol, who twirled for her seventh year; and Kathy, in her third year of solo twirling. Altogether, Crawford's talented twirlers had accumulated more than 600 awards for excellence in local, state, national, and international competition.

The Crawford Choral Club was composed of members of the Girls' Chorus, Girls' Ensemble, Concert Choir, and Madrigals. Under the musical direction of Miss Elinore Lueth the 250 members increased their appreciation of music.

Officers, Mike Drakulich, Bonnie Rodgers, Cathy Montello, and Liz Lee, helped coordinate the club's many public appearances. Many performances were enjoyed by underprivileged, social service, and hospital groups.

The Crawford Choir, under the guidance of Miss Lueth, contributed much of their musical talents to special assemblies and at school functions.

Bowlers Competed Weekly

Bowlers work at perfecting their form, an important aspect of the sport.

The Bowling Club sought to foster the spirit of fellowship, the practice of good sportsmanship, and to improve the members' knowledge of bowling. The sixty members of the Bowling Club found recreation and friendly competition in a social atmosphere after school. Mr. Reid, the club's advisor, and officers Martha McGowan, president; Barbee McCubbin, vice president; and Susan Cone, secretary-treasurer, led the enthusiastic bowlers in both business meetings and bowling teams. Weekly meetings were held on Wednesdays at University Lanes. Dues were collected each week to help finance several projects. These included a beach party in June, a banquet at the end of the year, and the purchase of trophies to be presented to outstanding bowlers.

New Folk Sponsored Sings

Members of the Crawford New Folk Club completed several worthwhile activities during the past year. The thirty Colts under the co-sponsorship of Mrs. Martha Maurer and Miss Pamela Alesch sang for patients at Sharp Memorial Hospital and participated in the Groov-In. The club's meetings on alternate Wednesdays often featured guest speakers. Through these means, New Folk members furthered their love of folk music and gained a greater understanding of its origin. The worthy goals of the Crawford New Folk Club were carried out under the inspiring and guiding influence of club officers. These leaders included Corinne Brown, president; Rob McCutcheon, vice-president; and Roberta Axelrod, program chairman.

Learning to play the guitar is one of the goals of the New Folk Club.

Mr. Reid, a guest speaker, gives members tips on playing the guitar.

Senior girls are eligible for Senior Secretaries if they have had first or second year shorthand. They meet on second and fourth Tuesdays of each month.

Seniors Gain Proficiency

Hard-working members take dictation from Mrs. Helen Mertzbacher.

The Senior Secretaries were a group of thirty-members, all dedicated to furthering their experience and maintaining high standards in the business field. Under the supervision of Mrs. Helen Merzbacher, club advisor, meetings were held the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month, alternating between school and the homes of members. Senior Secretary officers included: Jeri Maracin, president; Kathy Keeyes, vice president; Nancy Stickler, secretary; and Joan Nigro, treasurer. The Senior Secretaries, as in past years sponsored varied activities including: a day in court; brownie, cupcake, sucker, and candy cane sales; a service project; and an alumni dinner in the Spring for all former Senior Secretaries.

Senior Secretaries work diligently to further their clerical skills.

Crawford Profited From Classes

Crawford was fortunate to have several volunteer service groups, including the Typing Service Class, and the Crawford Stage Crew.

The Typing Service Class was composed of seven members, all carefully selected for their outstanding typing ability, mature judgment, good citizenship and attendance, cooperative attitude, and good scholastic record.

The four members of the Crawford Stage Crew, under the supervision of Mr. Van Buskirk, performed duties which included assisting at all assemblies and rallies, showing movies, and helping with dramatic and musical productions.

The members of the Stage Crew, Tom Pfleeger, Mr. Van Buskirk, sponsor, Dan Ash, Greg Aten, and Rich Medhurst meet daily in the auditorium.

The Stage Crew constructs necessary props for play productions.

Spirited Stir-ups enthusiastically encourage the Crawford teams on to victory. The Stir-ups provide the supporting cheers and clever banners at the games.

Colts Spurred on by Stir-ups

The Stir-Ups, with an active membership of 400 students, promoted pep and school spirit at all athletic functions. The club met on Thursdays after school in the cafeteria, at least once a month. Under the leadership of Miss Buck, their sponsor, holders of the Stir-Up membership cards planned their activities. These included the Crawford "C," the sale of Stir-Up cards, painting posters for games, and the selling of balloons at Homecoming. Officers for the year were Maggie Marshall, president; Joan Kellogg, vice president;

Barbara Forest, secretary; and Laurie Peterson, treasurer. The officers led the organization in the production of pep. The Crawford "C," composed of many pompon wielding, spirited Crawfordites, was seen at all home football games during the Fall-Winter sports season. During the 1967-68 school year, the Stir-Ups achieved their club's purpose — promoting pep and spirit — through their goal of making banners and posters for all school sports events, including swimming, tennis, football, track, golf and gymnastics.

The Electronics Club, under the supervision of Mr. Deason, promotes electronic knowledge. They meet every Wednesday after school in Room 602.

The Graphic Enterprises serve the school in many ways such as printing dance bids and football programs.

Members use equipment available at meetings.

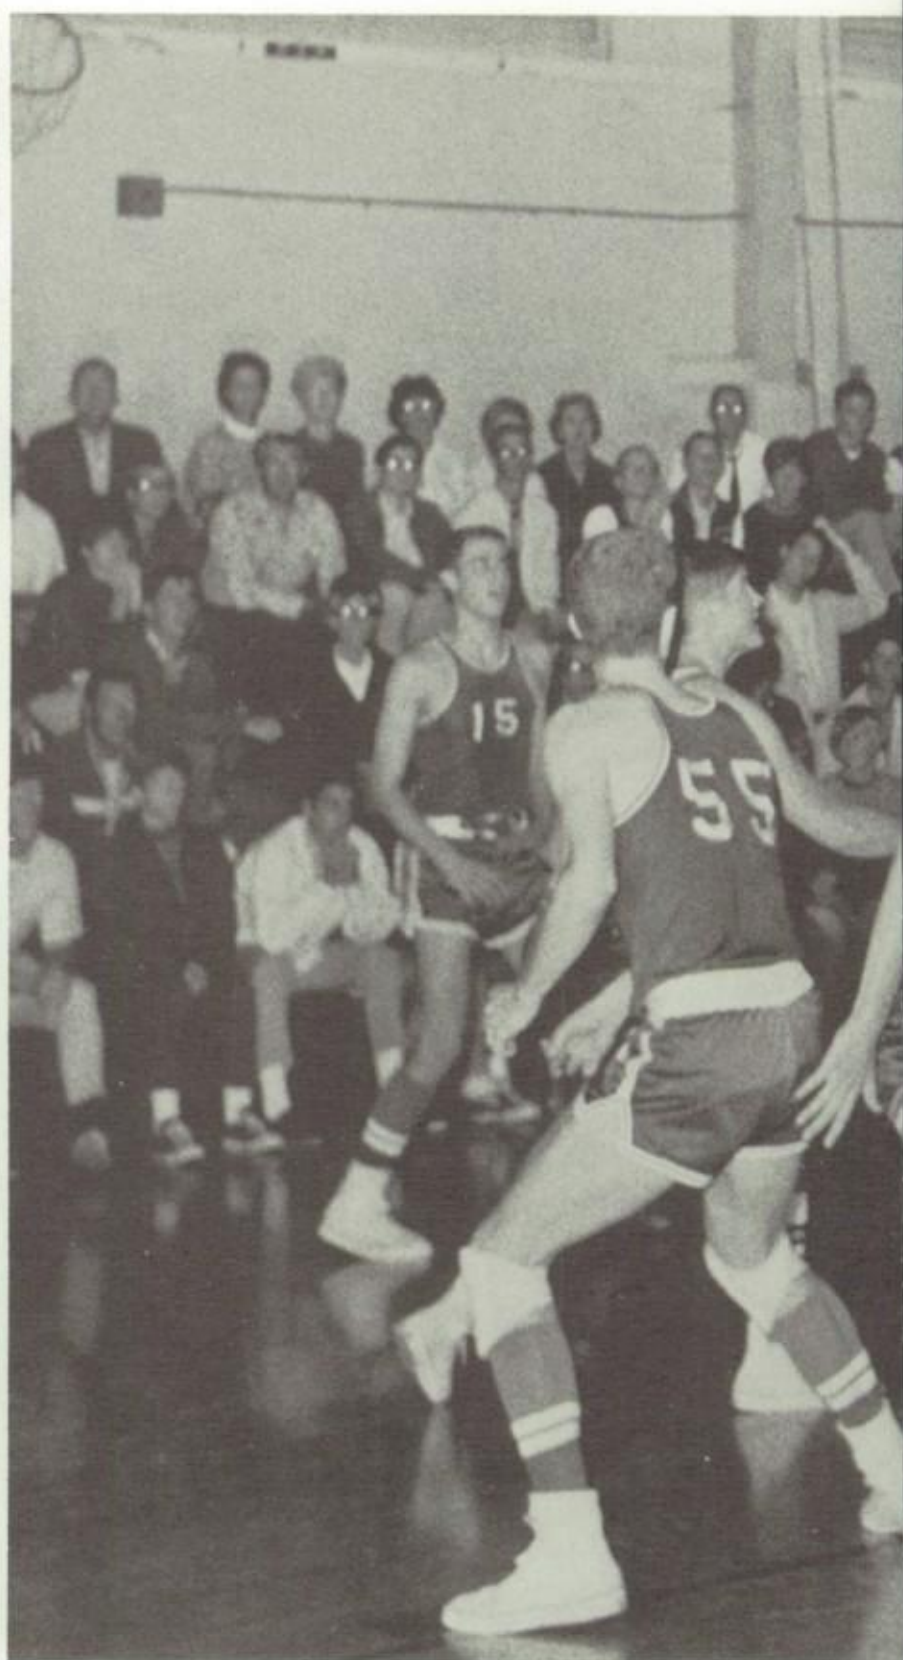

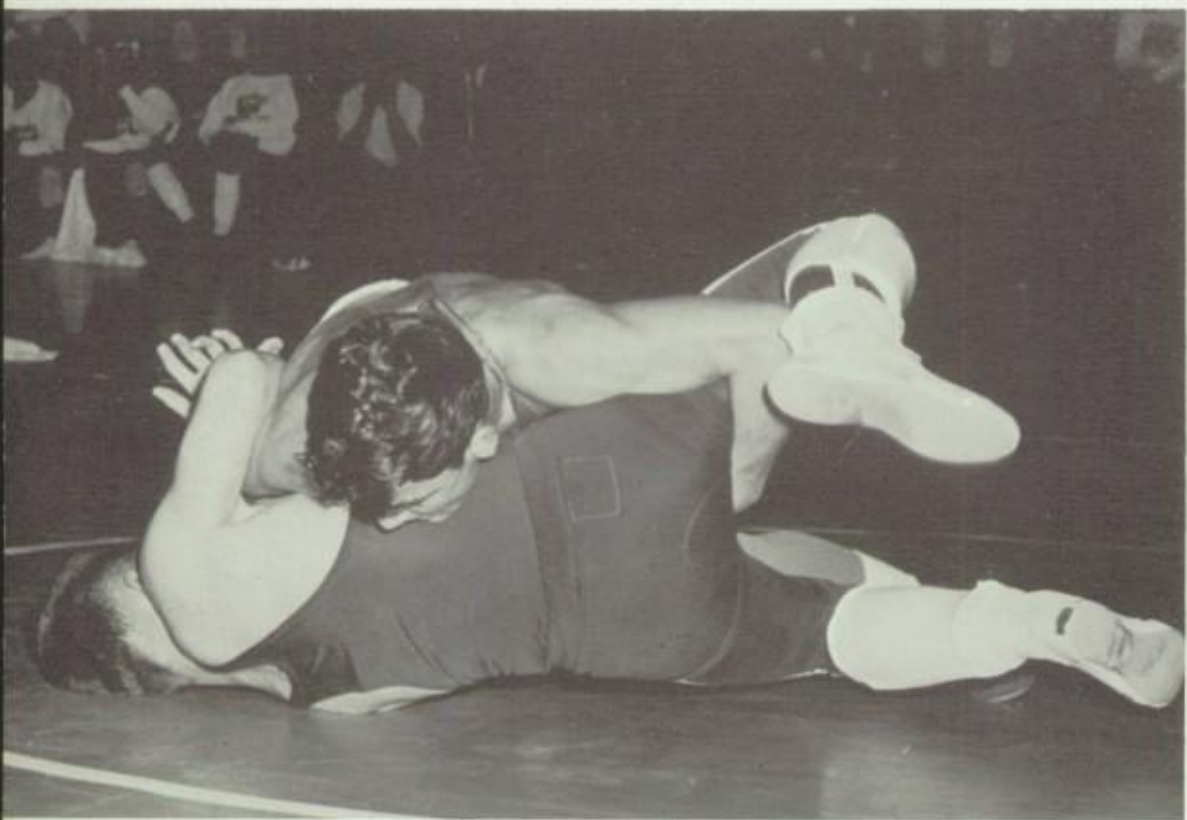

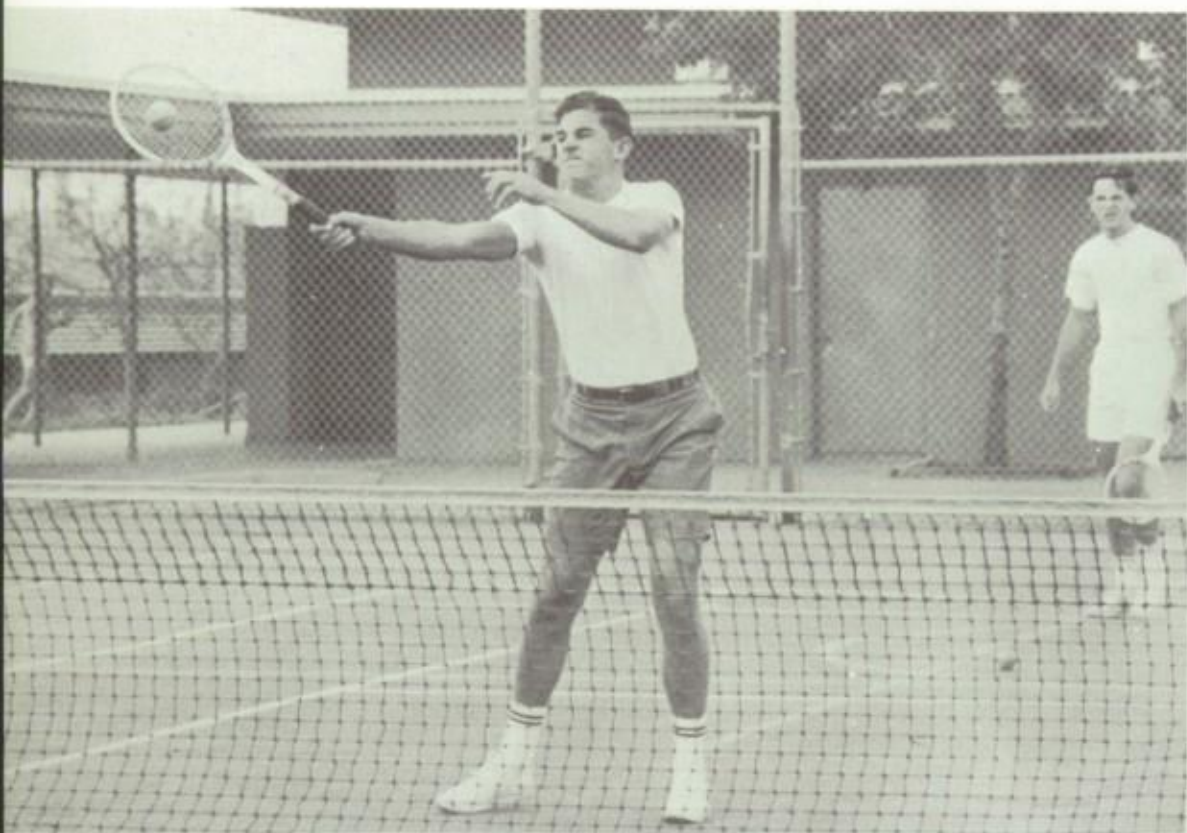

Clubs Gained Practical Skills

The Crawford High Electronics Club under the leadership of Mr. Deason promoted the knowledge of amateur radio and electronics, stimulated further interest in the varied fields of electronics, and performed school service activities. Chief planners for the year included Duane Edgington, president; Gordon McKee, vice president; and John Fornaca, secretary-treasurer.

The Graphic Enterprise Club was led by sponsor, Mr. Francis Linderman. The organization's stated purpose was to develop skills and to increase knowledge of photography, printing, and related fields of graphic arts. Some of the club's many activities were planning and printing football programs and school service work including the printing of posters, office forms, tickets, and bids.

Mr. Deason explains and demonstrates electronic equipment to members.

Competition

The Crawford Varsity Football team's showing in the past year was discouraging at first glance, but was actually much better than it seemed. The league record stood at one win with four losses, while the overall record better reflected Crawford's competence with a total of three victories and six defeats. The football team scored a total of 170 points during the 1967 football season. Highlights of the season were the final two games of the year, when Crawford smashed Castle Park 48-12, and rolled over Homecoming rival Morse 28-12. Also regarded as fine team efforts were the loss to San Diego, 19-21, and Crawford's defeat by Lincoln, 22-41. Coaches Harvey and Romig helped to develop the many outstanding players on the team. Superior offensive play was displayed by most valuable player, Fred Covina, fullback and leading scorer with 54 points; Rod Boone, quarterback and leading passer with the second highest point total of 36 points; most improved player, Rudy Farmer, tackle; team captain Randy Loch, guard; Chuck Mosteller, end and principal pass receiver; Ron Thrash, end; and Randy Flynn, kicker. Defensive standouts included best tackler Dan Felice, center; Rick Lee, halfback; Mike Levas, end; Clyde Collins, end; and Dennis Stewart, halfback. Thirty-five team members were awarded varsity letters for 1967.

J.V. Football Team Captured League Co-Title

The 1967 Junior Varsity Football team completed the season with six wins and three losses. The team scored 165 points in the process, compared with only 81 points for opponents. In league play the J.V. team pulled through with three wins and two defeats. Highlights of the season included the team's victory over Hoover, 7-0; a tremendous team effort in defeating Lincoln, 34-0; beating previously undefeated Castle Park, a team that had averaged 39 points in each preceding game; and moving into a three-way tie for the Eastern League Championship with a 14-13 win over Morse.

Outstanding players included fifteen Crawford team members. Leading scorers for 1967 were Mike Tice with 42 points, Bill Gregg, Stephen Hoke and Philip Weiss.

Cross Country Team Showed

Oscar Andrade, the number two harrier, strides along the course.

The Varsity Cross Country team's nearly flawless performances ranked Crawford second in the Eastern League. At the season's end, the team's league record stood at five wins with only one defeat, while for the entire season Crawford pulled through with five victories and two losses. The highlight of the 1967 season was the meet with San Diego High, when, with outstanding individual performances, many runners reached their best time for the year. Seven superior runners made up the Ten Club, totally comprised of those persons who had run a two mile course in less than eleven minutes. Included in the exclusive honorary club were Kelly Collier, Oscar Andrade, John Ables, Randy Thomas, Art Flores, David Ring, and Bill Maheras. The 1967 Cross Country team included eleven lettermen, while the only Seniors leaving the team at graduation were Bill Maheras, Oscar Andrade, and Steve Milne. Sparked by tough competition, the team showed determination and a willing desire to improve.

With a final burst of speed, two Crawford runners finish just ahead of their Morse foes.

Striving for an excellent time, Gene Krieser maintains a lead over other Crawford runners.

Crawford Gymnasts Were Undefeated in Eastern League

The school year 1967-68 saw Crawford's domination of gymnastics grind to a halt. After fifty-seven consecutive team victories during the past six years, Crawford finished third in the Second Annual Waterman Memorial Meet, fourth in the San Diego Section C.I.F., and lost two dual non-league meets to Mission Bay and Kearny. However, the gymnastics team continued undefeated in league competition and won its eighth consecutive Eastern League Championship. The overall dual meet record for 1967, was six wins and two losses. Named outstanding gymnasts were Larry Herrmann, competing in long horse, parallel bars, horizontal bars, floor exercise, and the side horse competition; Scott Bankston, an expert in the rope climb; Robert McCutcheon, for excellence in floor exercise; and Joe Tice, on the horizontal bar. Eight other team members also won letters for their competitive gymnastic skills. Three sophomore members of the team were honored for their outstanding performances; Bob Radican, Skip Jacobson, and John Giamanco.

Cagers Vied For Top Honors

The Crawford Varsity cagers surprised most spectators and surpassed all expectations in 1967-68 season play. Picked before the start of the season to take last place in Eastern League competition, Crawford pulled through to tie for third with Lincoln behind first-ranked San Diego and second-place Morse. For its outstanding showing the Varsity Basketball team gained a C.I.F. playoff berth against Helix. Though Crawford lost the hard-fought game 50 to 59, the playoff game marked a high point of spirit and enthusiasm.

The coaching of Mr. James Sams was a source of inspiration and guidance for team members. The excellent team spirit throughout the season was enhanced through a program of appreciation initiated by Rallies and Assemblies Commissioner Ann Germeraad. Loyal Colts presented cakes to the team following victorious efforts to spur the cagers on.

Outstanding players included Glenn Skirvin, a free-thrower with 76 per cent accuracy, and Rod Boone, selected by the A.S.B. as outstanding player of the year. Several other team members were honored by nomination to Eastern League All-Star teams.

J.V. Basket Squad Produced

Coach John Ferguson guided the Junior Varsity cagers to a season record of eleven wins compared to nine losses. In league play the team's record was unfortunately not impressive. In fifteen games only seven victories were realized. Crawford's J.V. Cagers ran up 1,082 points throughout the season while their opponents totalled only 1,054 points. Several outstanding players sparked the efforts of the Crawford team. These included Robert Lueke, who totalled 255 points in season play; Chuck Mosteller with 199 points, and John Weaver with a total of 170 points.

Improvement Marked Wrestlers'

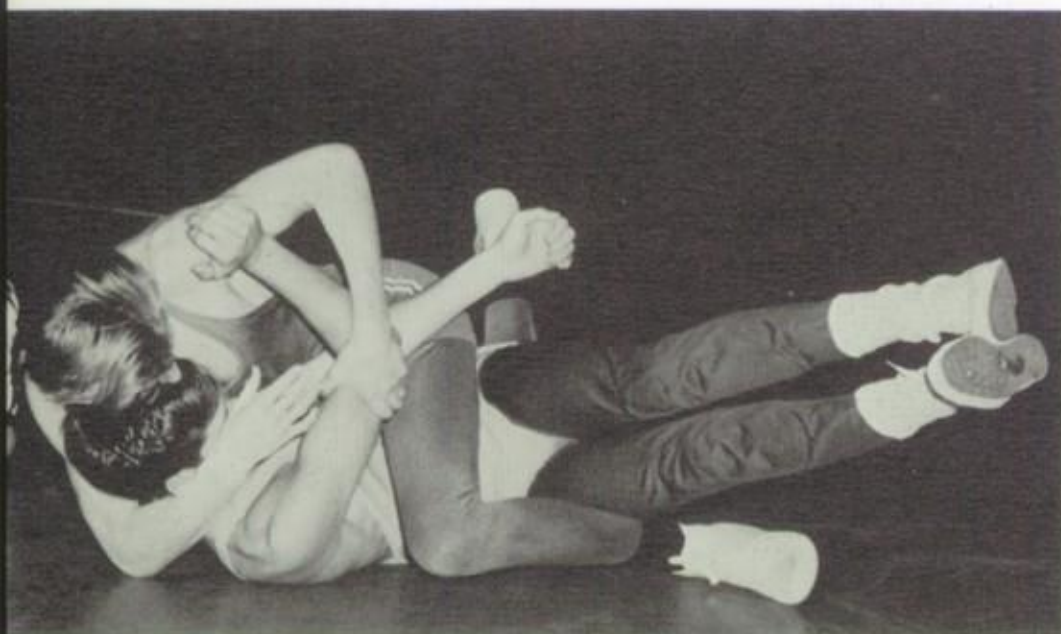

The Varsity Wrestling team completed its best year in Crawford history with a record of eight wins and four losses. The team's most effective effort was waged against Morse, last year's Eastern League Champion, when Crawford achieved a 26 to 20 victory. At season's end Crawford ranked third in Eastern League competition. An indication of the team's excellence was the high percentage of lettermen on the varsity team. Among the numerous outstanding wrestlers were Joe Tice with twenty-four wins and five losses, Ralph Cirillo with a record of seventeen wins, four losses, and one tie, Benny Mistretta, James Bolan, and Patrick Donahue.

Junior Varsity grapplers finished the season with a rating of second in league play. The team's impressive record included nine victories with only three defeats. Outstanding J.V. wrestlers were James Klingenberg with eleven wins and ten pins and Tom LaNier with ten wins and only two losses. Coach James Lanham was indeed proud of the accomplishments of both the Varsity and the Junior Varsity Wrestling teams.

Using every muscle in his body, Junior Tim Darton, propels the shot outward over the toe-board in the shot put event during a home meet.

Track Coach Marshall Malcolm found the 1968 season very rewarding, not due to the team's final win-lose record, but rather, owing to the effort, attitude, and dedication displayed by the entire team throughout the season. In league play the team came through with a two win and three loss record, while the final season results showed four victories with five defeats. The season's most thrilling competition was the meet against arch-rival Hoover High School, at which the outcome could not be decided until the very last event was completed.

Though track was essentially a team effort, the above average contribution of several individuals was noted throughout the season. 1968 team captains were Oscar Andrade, Phil Brealey, Dave Buehner, and Kelly Collier. Outstanding performances were given by record-breakers Dave Buehner and John Neun. Dave reached a height of 13 feet 6½ inches in the pole vault event. John Neun jumped 6 feet 4 inches in the high jump.

The Junior Varsity tracksters displayed great strength during the past season and showed signs of becoming fine Varsity competitors in the future. The team, winning six of its meets, encountered but three setbacks during season play. The final league record for 1968 stood at three wins and two losses. The powerful Colts overcame the opposition of Pt. Loma, Clairemont, Saints, San Dieguito, Hoover, and Morse tracksters, bowing only to the unrelenting pressures of Grossmont, San Diego and Lincoln High Schools. Outstanding individuals were pole vaulter John Kitchell and high jumper Roy Setliffe who set a new record of 5 feet 8 inches.

Turning to accept the baton from Stuart Rivers, junior varsity runner Robbie Robbins begins his quarter mile leg of the mile relay.

Six returning lettermen formed the nucleus of Crawford's capable Varsity baseball team. Coach William Sandback led the fourteen members of the squad through the 1968 season to achieve an overall record of fifteen wins and only six losses. In league play the Colts encountered three setbacks while taking nine of the twelve league games. Crawford's fine team shut-out the ill-fated teams from Point Loma, Lincoln, and Morse High Schools and allowed only one run in games against El Cajon and San Diego High Schools. The determined Colts were runners-up in the April 8 to 10 Lions Baseball Tournament winning matches against Kearny, Chula Vista, and Sweetwater High Schools, and losing only to chief rival Hoover High. Outstanding performances were provided during the entire baseball season by players Earl Altshuler, team captain, Rod Boone, Dan Coronado, Mike Pieratt, and Mark Stransky.

The Junior Varsity Baseball team, led by Mr. Jerry Tooze, won eleven straight games before losing 8-7 to St. Augustine in the St. Augustine Junior Varsity Easter Tournament. Two lettermen returned to the team for the 1968 season and thirteen members were expected to return for next year's team. A number of promising players spurred the team on to a .297 batting average. Danny Gonzalez, second baseman, with a .485 batting average hit safely in seventeen out of nineteen games. Shortstop and center-fielder Glen Cady had an average of .342. Other outstanding individuals included catcher Dennis Cantor, pitcher Greg Dunn, Brad Blackman, and Mike Tice. The season's highlight was defeating league leader St. Augustine twice in league play, the only school to do so.

The Crawford tennis team, under the direction of Mr. James Sams, completed a fantastic season of play. Greatly aiding in the squad's performance were twelve 1967-68 lettermen. These included Richard Alter, Ross Arnold, Stephen Blake, Tim Brooks, Richard Cole, Marc Kobernick, Charles Mosse, and Dennis Robberecht as well as Team Captain David Stewart and other outstanding players, Bernie Feldman, Ted Teacher, and David Whitehead. At mid-season the tennis team was undefeated with a total of thirteen wins. Highlights of the season included defeating San Diego High on their courts for an all-time first, and beating La Jolla Country Day twice. This was quite an accomplishment as La Jolla Country Day was San Diego C.I.F. Champion for the past two years. The tennis squad also came out victorious in matches against Helix and Monte Vista High Schools at the Monte Vista Invitational Tournament. May 10 in a tremendous team effort Crawford pushed the San Diego High team $17\frac{1}{2}$ to $14\frac{1}{2}$ to win the Eastern League title.

Mr. Richard Draz, coach of the Varsity and Junior Varsity Swimming teams, was rewarded for his long hours of work with outstanding final season ratings. Eight returning lettermen formed an experienced nucleus within the Varsity team of twenty-one swimmers and three divers. Co-captains Scott York and Miles Weaver led the Crawford swimmers through an undefeated season with numerous school records broken. Mike Kostich, John Ace, Miles Weaver, Pete Keyser, John Weaver, Scott Pressley, and Mike Stamm set new 200 yard medley relay, 200 yard freestyle, 50 yard freestyle, 200 yard individual medley, 100 yard backstroke, 400 yard freestyle, and 400 yard freestyle relay records.

Twelve swimmers and three divers on the Junior Varsity Swimming team, led by outstanding team members Ken Crane, Campbell Naismith, and Robert Goodwin, completed the 1968 season with an excellent record. The eleven-man golf team completed an impressive season of play in 1968. The team finished inter-school competition in a tie for first place in the Eastern League with a 4 to 2 record. Skillful play brought the Colts two early season victories over league favorite St. Augustine for the 1968 season's most thrilling highlights.

Other outstanding team efforts resulted in close wins over St. Augustine with a score of 187 to 194 points, San Diego High, 404 to 409 points, and chief rival, Hoover High, 191 to 196 points. Noted as most outstanding players were team captain, Walt Abbey, Dave Bosley, Steve Hire and Arnie Meyers.

The large group of boys that turned out for the weekly after-school competition was noted for the interest and attitude it showed. Mr. James Sams coached the basketball program. At the end of this activity period Crawford finished second in competition with other schools. Mr. Marshall Malcolm led a program of track sports. In an extramural meet at the close of this program the tracksters finished second in over-all competition. Coach William Sandback directed the development of superior handball skills. Some of these players finished second in the singles division and third in the doubles division in extramural post-season competition. Mr. Richard Medenwald took charge of the intramural physical fitness, volleyball, and badminton programs. In answer to their hard work, dedication, and fine leadership the top Crawford physical fitness squad placed first in an inter-school tournament.

G.A.A. Revealed Fierce Spirit

More than one hundred girls took advantage of the many varied programs offered by the Girls' Activity Association. The club's purpose was four-fold — to encourage interest in athletic and related activities through participation, to uphold and carry out the highest ideals of true sportsmanship, to promote a feeling of good fellowship among girls, and to foster a spirit of genuine service to Crawford. The G.A.A. was led by Miss Ann Hitt, advisor, and Caralie Finch, president; Patty Halfaker, president-elect; Gail Armour, secretary-treasurer; and Mia Tompas, Commissioner of Girls' Activities. Some of the diverse sports activities of the G.A.A. were tennis, softball, volleyball, basketball, modern dance, badminton, gymnastics, track, hockey, table tennis, and archery.

Exceptional Students Were

Amazing determination was displayed by the top scholars of the Class of 1968. Their efforts were sparked by lively competition among the year's more than 1,000 graduates. Judy Martin was the first person in Crawford's history to complete high school with a straight 4.0 average. Following closely behind her was Lucy Perkins with only one B in three years. The remaining outstanding students were Mark Rosen, David Smith, David Stewart, Tracy Stone, Jeanne Corpus, Mark Howard, Carolyn Myers, Nancy Stickler, and Gary Formway.

Recognized and Rewarded

Fifteen Crawford students were chosen by faculty members to receive Departmental Key awards. These Seniors were chosen for their high scholastic records and an unequalled excellence in a specific field of endeavor. This award was an attempt to honor and give formal recognition to exceptional academic efforts and achievements. Keys were awarded in varied categories including art, business education, drama, English, foreign languages, home economics, industrial arts, mathematics, choral music, instrumental music, boys' and girls' physical education, science, social studies, and speech arts. The coveted Keys were presented at the annual Senior Awards Assembly in June.

C.S.F. Met High Standards

California Scholastic Federation recognizes and rewards students who maintain A minus average at each semester.

One hundred seventy-six Crawford students qualified for membership in the California Scholarship Federation. Minimum membership standards were three A's and one B in academic subjects on semester report cards. In addition, thirty-five seniors, having been in C.S.F. four semesters, achieved life membership. Miss Florence Eaton, Mrs. Emma Leisure, and officers, Marc Kobernick, Sue Cole, and Lucy Perkins, directed all C.S.F. activities. On Saturday, April 20, over thirty C.S.F. members attended the Southern District Conference at Long Beach State College.

9 Merit Finalists Credit Crawford

In 1968, nine Crawford students qualified as National Merit Scholarship finalists. Only one percent of the nation's high school seniors achieved this high a rating on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test. Leslie Bolinger, Robert Coleman, Fred Dexter, Bob Dise, Wayne Farmer, Joel Fisher, Lucy Perkins, Joe Schultz, and David Smith also received outstanding scores on the Scholastic Aptitude Test. In addition to receiving letters of commendation, these students were entered into contention for 2,900 National Merit Scholarship and sponsored Merit Scholarship awards ranging from $100 - $6,000.

The Debate Team, sponsored by Miss Edgecomb, did an impressive job of representing Crawford by earning many trophies and capturing first place in the county-wide debate tournaments.

Crawford's outstanding Speech Team was headed by Mrs. Mary Edgecomb and co-captains, Fred Greensite and Joel Fisher. The team competed in three specific areas of speech arts: forensics, debate, and problem solving discussion. Crawford was sweepstakes winner in three out of four San Diego City Schools Speech Arts League tournaments and placed third in state qualifying debate competition. This high rank enabled Fred and Joel to compete in a state-wide tournament at Stanford University.

Fred Greensite, captain, and Joel Fisher, co-captain, certainly lead and support the team in its many victories.

Though Competition Was Intense, Many Colts Earned Noted Honors

A panel of science teachers judged projects of the Crawford Science Fair on the basis of originality and depth of study. Outstanding research projects were entered in the Greater San Diego Science Fair. A first place rating entitled Crawford students, Paul Dutky, Fred Greensite, Chris Benjamin, Nita Howell, and Duane Edgington, to compete further at the State Science Fair in Los Angeles.

Fred Greensite, Chris Benjamin, Nita Howell, and Duane Edgington, listen as Paul Dutky explains the project he and Chris developed.

Co-captains, Fred Greensite and Dave Smith, led the Math Team in 1968. Team members competed in several types of tournaments which tested problem solving skills, quickness of thought, and knowledge of all areas of math. The team competed in the Claremont Men's College Tourney, placed twenty-third out of 178 schools at the Occidental Math Field Day, and second at San Diego State Field Day.

Members of the Math Team distinguish themselves in competition.

The students who received Bank of America Plaque Awards this year were Robert S. Manes, Vocational Arts; Lucille A. Perkins, Liberal Arts; Judith

A. Martin, Fine Arts, and David A. Smith, Science and Mathematics. Most of these plaque winners were then eligible to enter into city-wide contest.

Several girls were chosen by social studies teachers to compete for an award conferred by the Daughters of the American Revolution. The girls were judged on their good citizenship and leadership qualities. Winner of the coveted award was Mia Trompas, Commissioner of Girls' Activities.

Crawford's A.S.B. President, Steve Epstein, represented the school at Boys' State in Sacramento. Sponsored by American Legion Posts and Auxiliaries, the week-long model legislative simulated government at the city, county, and state level, and brought awareness of society's problems.

Mia Trompas receives recognition from the D.A.R. for her distinguished service to school and community.

Steve Epstein will long remember his experience in solving governmental problems while attending Boys' State.

Merits of Outstanding Students

Four Crawford students qualified to receive Bank of America Plaque Awards in 1968. David Smith, Judy Martin, Lucy Perkins, and Bob Mane's won plaques for work in science and mathematics, fine arts, liberal arts, or vocational arts. Most plaque winners were then eligible to enter into city-wide competition for monetary awards ranging from $25 to $100 and placement in further state-wide competition.

The Bank of America Certificate Awards were given to deserving students in eleven categories. Administration and faculty members selected eleven Crawfordites because of their outstanding accomplishments. Certificate Awards winners included Fred Greensite, Greg Estep, Elizabeth Lee, Susan Kiley, Bernard Meyer, Robert Dise, David Stewart, Ann Germeraad, Beverly Bentson, Alice Clary, and Alan Goins.

Centaur, Pacer Comprised Quill and Scroll

Quill and Scroll was an honorary journalism society comprised of approximately forty Crawford students. Membership in the nation-wide society was contingent upon enrollment in a journalism or publications class and recommendation of the class advisor. Mr. William Reiker served as society sponsor and advisor. Officers for the 1967-68 school year included Sharon Cramer, president; Marilyn Tjaden, vice president; Sharon Whitley, secretary; and Joy Upham, treasurer. The club worked actively to encourage Crawford students to submit material for the Del Potrillo.

The more than thirty members of Quill and Scroll are chosen for their literary endeavors in publications and journalism classes.

Foreign Students Helped Pro-

In addition to Crawford's two A.F.S. students the student body included nine pupils from foreign countries. Inger Johansson, a twelfth-grader from Sweden, spent a year in America under the auspices of the Youth for Understanding exchange program. Two Mexican students, Sylvia Diaz and Maria Soto, planned to return to their native country after graduation. Sophomore Mohammad Azarmi from Iran saw Crawford as a step toward his goal of becoming an American citizen. Five students from Southeast Asia, Ngoc Anh-Le from Vietnam, Montree Tanaloocharen, and Kitisak, Porntep, and Pornchai Lersbuasin, all from Thailand, attended Crawford and later planned to return to their families.

The Spanish Honor Society, Capitulo de Romulo Gallegos brought together more than fifty exceptional students of Spanish. Mr. Gerald Newall, Mrs. Frances Brownell, and officers, Susan Reisman, Vincent Massullo, and Sue Byrum, directed the society's activities. Members tutored students needing assistance in an attempt to improve and spread the study of the Spanish language.

Sylvia Diaz and Irma Soto, from Mexico, and Swedish Inger Johansson will miss their American friends when they return to their countries.

Shared Knowledge and Skills

The Spanish Honor Society is for students who wish to understand the language and culture of Spanish speaking nations.

mote International Relations

Nagoc Anh-Le, from Viet Nam, and Mohammed Azarmi, Iran, both plan on attending college after graduation.

Montree Tanaloocharen and brothers, Porntep, Pornchai, and Kitisak Lersbusian, all from Thailand, propose to stay in America for the next five years.

Made Learning Meaningful

Seventeen Junior and Senior girls from Crawford, Morse, Lincoln, Hoover, and Clairemont High Schools participated in a daily two-hour occupational clothing and textile class taught by Mrs. Illah Fuller. The girls learned to alter and mass produce garments, make draperies and slip covers, and apply for employment after high school graduation. Students used their new-found knowledge of design and craftsmanship in community participation work. Using materials provided by sponsoring organizations, the talented girls fashioned needed and useful articles for non-profit organizations like the American Red Cross.

America . . . The word spelled excitement, the space race, Hollywood, freeways — and it meant a whole year. I dreamed . . .

What would I say? Would they like me? Even on the first day I found reassurances in the smiling faces and I knew that I was accepted and welcomed. I think these two words are the most important and say the most for my stay in a foreign country among foreign people.

I think of my family and I think of warm, friendly people and laughter and sharing.

I think of Crawford and all the classes I attended and how informal and interesting it was. I think of football and basketball games and I feel spirited. I think of the Nominating Convention and I see confetti . . . !

No matter where I go and how far I travel, I will carry forever with me a little bit of America, and I would like to think that in a small corner of a big country, a little bit of South Africa, too, will remain.

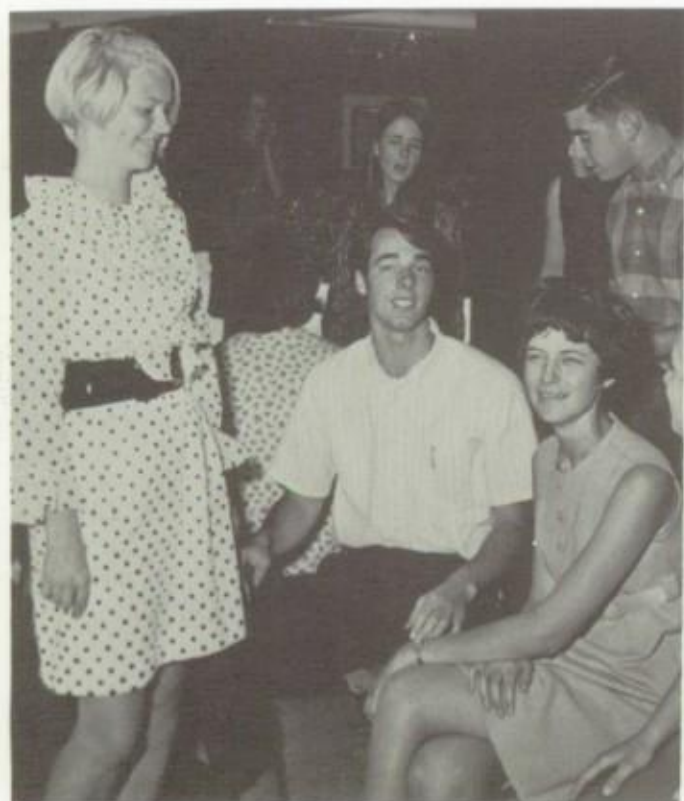

I was happy here and for this I can only thank you.

Leaders of the Class of '68

Inspired Successful Years

Earl Altshuler served the Class of 1968 as president for the second time during its passage through Crawford. Mr. Richard Brosio aided the spirited class in his capacity as class advisor for the third consecutive year. Other 1967-68 officers were Kathy Crosthwaite, vice president; Barbara Forest, secretary; and Nancy Lueba, treasurer. Sixteen chairmen comprising the Senior Class Council augmented the duties and responsibilities of the class officers. The Senior Class continued to carry out the programs and traditions begun by previous class cabinets. Class officers for the year 1966-67, included Steve Epstein, president; Louis Schwartzberg, vice president; Kathy Crosthwaite, secretary; and Sue Cole, treasurer. The Sophomore year, 1965-66, was led by president, Earl Altshuler; vice president, Steve Epstein; secretary, Nancy Lueba; and treasurer, Becky Overton. To all these spirited, energetic, and capable people, the Class of 1968 owed special thanks.

Diligent Seniors Served Their

Sixteen capable Seniors augmented the work of the Senior Class Cabinet as class chairmen. Separate committees were formed to plan every aspect of Senior life to ensure a year of exciting and successful functions.

The Senior Class began its final fund-raising drive early in the year with the Senior Class Movie, "The Art of Love," arranged by Stephanie Sloggett. In November Kathy Beard directed the construction of the Senior Class Float. The Model T tied in with the "Roaring Twenties" theme of the Class Party, planned by Andee Press. Senior Day arrived at the end of May after much work by Maggie Marshall. Following closely was the Senior Prom which was brought to life by Liz Williamson. As the end of the school year drew closer, Patti Pepper, Barbara Weitzen, Laurie Peterson, Bob Vicars, Linda Best, Linda Ball, Beth Gordon, Donna Goerlitz, Tish Scott, Cathy Felice, Mike Drakulich, and many others worked feverishly to coordinate the last activities of the Class of 1968.

The Crawford gym was shaken by the music of the Brain Police.

The girls attending went all out to plan wild and colorful costumes.

The class enjoys dancing in a style other than that of the twenties.

Pam Flores presents Rob McCutcheon an award for his costume.

Some Seniors found the tricycles too small to race.

Brain Police

The Senior Class Party, held on November 22, in the Crawford gym, was under the direction of Andee Press. Entertainment was provided by a "Roaring Twenties" band playing from 8-9 p.m., and by the Brain Police from 9-11 p.m. Root beer and donuts were served by Junior boys. Many other planned activities and features made the last party for the Class of 1968 a thoroughly enjoyable and worthwhile experience. A "Roaring Twenties" costume contest, which all those present entered, was won by Lisa Urso and Rob McCutcheon. Many favorite old movies were shown in the dance room to help set a 1920's atmosphere. Senior boys and teachers present participated in a contest for sexy legs. Winners of this event were Earl Altshuler and Rick Fenell. A return to childhood was experienced when tricycle races were run in the course of the party. The "Roaring Twenties" Senior Class Party was undoubtedly the most successful in the history of the Class of 1968.

Junior boys serve refreshments while seniors watch old movies.

Lisa Urso livened party with a wild costume from styles of the 20's.

Many senior boys and teachers will never be forgotten for their participation in the evening's most unique contest.

A Musical

"Rally 'Round the Flag, Boys!" was a wacky comedy that could not help but delight all who saw it. The Senior Play, a new musical version, featured many special effects. These included motorcycles roaring down the aisles, fireworks, and the launching of a rocket.

Lieutenant Guido DiMaggio (Bernie Meyer) was assigned to the Putnam's Landing as a public relations man to convince the community that an Army base would benefit the residents. The job suited Guido's personality. However, a folk drama produced by Grace Bannerman (Carolyn Myers) turned into a riot between the town boys led by Grady Metcalf (Jon McGuffin) and soldiers led by Opie Dalrymple (Rick Pfleeger) concerning the latter's intentions toward Comfort Goodpasture (Corinne Brown and Adele Rabin). Later, while trying to regain the love of his girlfriend (Gloria Lieberman), the Lieutenant was informed that his colonel (Gordon Posthumus) was planning to transfer him to Alaska. At this point Guido thought that things couldn't get any worse. But one of the missiles "which couldn't possibly go off" did, and Guido once again became the scapegoat.

Col. Thorwald gently offers his advice to 2nd Lieut. Guido Di Maggio.

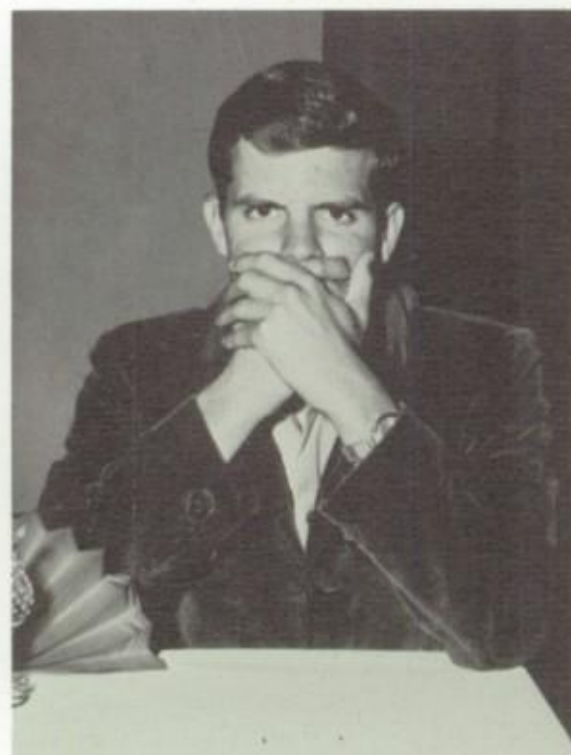

Grady, the leader of the gang, is a favorite with the town girls.

Captain Hoxie can't seem to face his problems.

Guido doesn't want to hear any complaints.

Harry decides that meditation beats talking.

Comedy was a Successful Play

The opinions of the teen-agers of Putnam's Landing on the soldiers who are moving into the town range from "the highest" to "the lowest."

Private Dalrymple finishes one of his songs with a flourish.

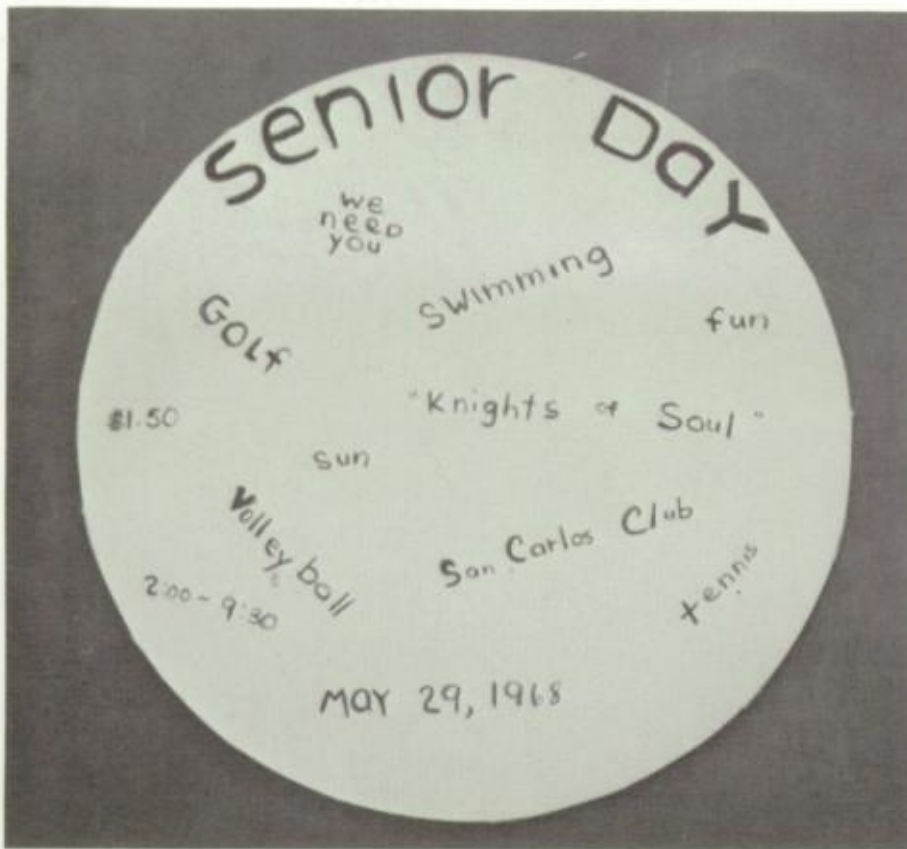

The adults of the small community wonder "What's the matter with kids today?"

Mr. Van Buskirk, who directed the play, discusses a scene with his leading ladies.

The Year End

Many hours of planning and work went into year end activities for seniors

As the end of the school year loomed closer, Senior activities reached a climax. After years of hoping and a full year of planning Senior Day, the Senior Prom, and the After Prom came to life for the Class of 1968.

Maggie Marshall ably headed the Senior Day committee. Enthusiastic seniors enjoyed dancing vigorously to the music of a live band, swimming, and devouring tons of refreshments at the San Carlos Club on May 29.

A Spanish garden transformed the ballroom of the Community Concourse on the evening of May 31. The long planning and hard work of the many prom chairmen was at last realized as "Quiet Nights of Quiet Stars" lived for a memorable evening. Dana Patterson and Gary Wilson sang the theme song accompanied by "Jimmy Noone and His Orchestra."

The Crawford After Prom was held from 1:00 to 5:00 a.m. at the Parkway Bowl. "Sandi and the Classics" and the "Brain Police" provided lively music.

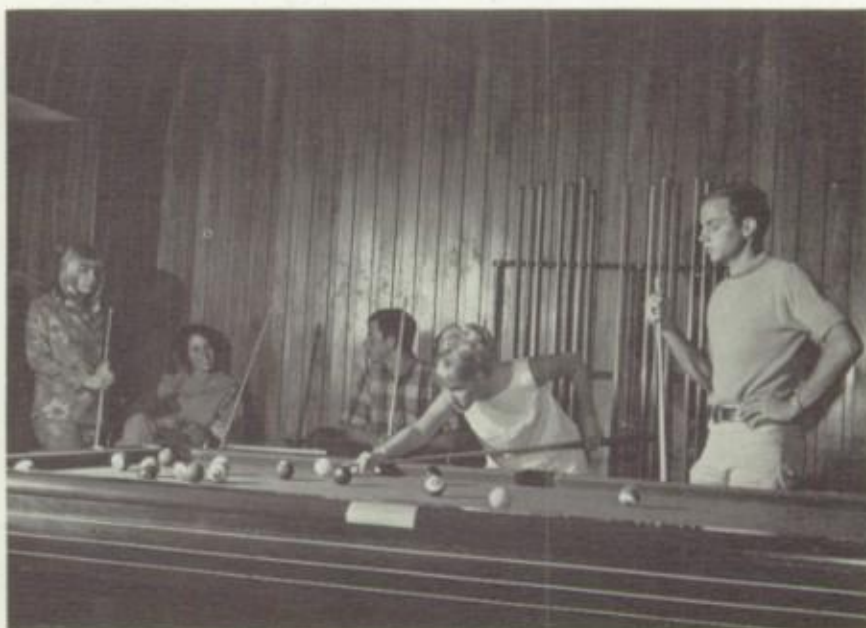

Connie Zwibel is getting ready for Senior Day, held at the San Carlos Club. The event held on May 31st was directed by Maggie Marshall.

Activities Busied Many Seniors

"Quiet Nights of Quiet Stars" the Senior Prom is a memorable event.

Seniors attending the After-Prom enjoy a game of billiards at 2:00 A.M.

Parkway Bowl provides excellent facilities for many different activities.

Relaxation is a must after bowling, dancing, billiards and a lot of food.

Pausing a moment at the Prom Judy Whitford and Gary Formway view an enchanting Spanish garden.

I can hardly express the loss at graduation of my friend I would like so much to know you better but then I hardly know anyone at all really who does anyone know to a bigger and better place where there is more freedom the best time to use it stay on and on it seems so hard to sign an annual but remember what oh for a good life filled with sweet girls where one has freedom and can think and the simple people can think and become educated explore yourself and you shall find the real human feeling there is no reason for us being here and the temptation to touch the girl that sits so close to you wait live for now for there may never be a tomorrow gone all gone and we feel nothing anymore and in the dark I write on and go to sleep and live through a short death of night inspiration we can make a better world it is up to us - fin.

Mr. George Parry Again Led

Duane Maley, vice principal, completed his fourth year at Crawford High School. His duties encompassed a variety of diverse areas. Mr. Maley acted as administrative advisor to the 1968 Senior Class and the A.S.B. Council, and directed student affairs. Other responsibilities included coordinating Crawford's master schedule, and the art, industrial arts, business education, boys' physical education, social studies, and driver training and education departments. Mr. Maley was also in charge of the student teaching and teacher assistant programs, as well as school representative to the Eastern League.

Vice Principals'

The students were proud to have Mr. George Parry serve as principal of Crawford. He consistently devoted his time to others' problems, no matter how hectic his schedule. Mr. Parry was always the friendliest Colt on Crawford's campus, and his ready smile and "hello" were offered to everyone. His enthusiasm for all school sports and activities rewarded him the title of the "Most Spirited Colt." His eagerness was infectious.

The responsibilities of being principal at the largest school in San Diego were no easy task, but Mr. Parry again demonstrated his abilities in leading the students and faculty. Crawford was fortunate to have such an outstanding administrator, George Parry.

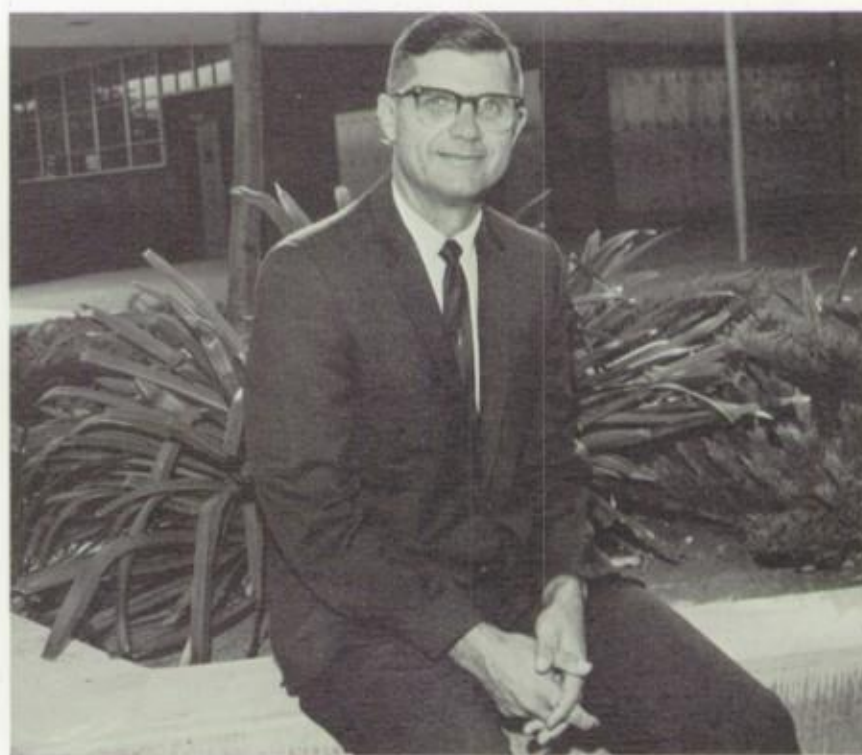

Crawford As Chief Administrator

Mrs. Melba Thomas returned to Crawford after an absence of several years in the capacity of girls' vice principal. Her responsibilities to students included the counseling of disciplinary problems and coordinating the necessary contacts between representatives of law enforcement agencies and girls. Mrs. Thomas also served as indirect sponsor of several campus organizations. The duties of Mrs. Thomas in the instructional program involved working with the English, home economics, speech and drama, girls' physical education, and educable mentally retarded departments, and with the counseling program.

The duties of Mr. William Urban, vice principal, involved the general supervision of the activities of all boys enrolled at Crawford. Aspects included in his supervision were attendance, behavior, and extra-curricular activities. This job called for close cooperation with the San Diego City and County law enforcement agencies. Mr. Urban also shared responsibility for the Class of 1969. Working closely with the foreign language, mathematics, science, and music departments, Mr. Urban helped in the planning and development of subject matter for the school year. This was his first year serving as vice principal.

Coordinated School Activities

Mr. George Parry demonstrated the many facets of his ever-changing role as Crawford's chief administrator as he proceeded through the school year. In the autumn Mr. Parry could be seen cheering furiously or gloomily viewing the scene before him as the fortune of Crawford's football team shifted in the balance. Later in the year Mr. Parry carried out a more conventional duty while addressing a student body assembly. When not around campus overseeing activities, chaperoning dances, or taking care of miscellaneous business, Crawford's principal could be found in his office taking care of the numerous administrative details necessary to run a school as large as Crawford.

Mr. Warren Rose, Head Counselor, shows his interest in all students.

The job of the counselor was to advise and to guide the individual in his future plans. Crawford's counselors were a specially trained group of teachers, tirelessly helping the students solve their educational, vocational, and personal needs. Information was made available by the counselors so that the students could plan their future course of action. Counselors only assisted with the decisions; they did not make them.

Encouraging students in their college and vocational plans, advising them in their school work, supplying scholarship information, finding employment for students inside and outside school, and helping students make their high school years a success were jobs of the counselors.

Educational Directions

Mrs. Cohen, work counselor, helps students find jobs.

11th Grade Advisors, Mr. Young, Mrs. Geiger and Mr. Smith help juniors plan their last year.

12th Grade Counselors, Mrs. Leisure and Mrs. Schwada advise seniors.

Miss Eaton and Mr. Hartman, Intergrade Advisors serve all students.

Mr. Nichols, Mrs. Davis and Mr. McLaughlin, 10th Grade Advisors help incoming sophomores.

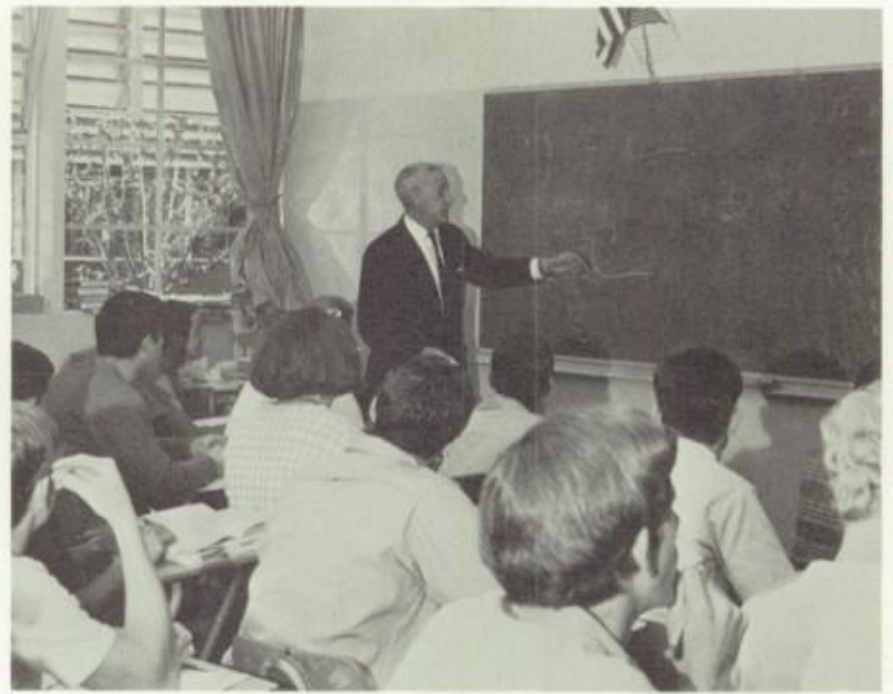

Mr. Fleck serves as Administrative Assistant.

The faculty of Crawford High School inspired the minds of over 3,600 students throughout the 1967-68 school year. Whether sponsoring organizations, revealing the concepts of learning, enthusiastically cheering Crawford's teams onward to victory, or chaperoning school activities, Crawford's 150 teachers formed the nucleus around which school life revolved.

Responsible in part for the high academic standards upheld by Crawford's teaching staff were the department chairmen. These experienced teachers helped to coordinate the instructional techniques in all areas of endeavor to reach a level of uniform quality. Included in this group of exceptional leaders in fields ranging from art to foreign languages and science to special services were Miss Dorothy Kuhn, Mrs. Helen Merzbacher, Mrs. Lois Perry, Mrs. Ellen Perkins, Mr. Nicolas Calderon, Mrs. Florence Collins, Mr. Warren Marlay, Mr. Robert Juel, Mr. Dennis Foster, Mr. James Sams, Miss Faye Thompson, Mr. Forbes Dickinson, and Mr. Richard Hartman.

Mr. Wagner makes history very interesting for his classes.

Pep Club-Cheerleaders

Working tirelessly, the cafeteria workers daily cooked, packaged, and served meals for hundreds of hungry Crawfordites. These experienced and dedicated women scurried through a hectic day to deliver nourishing lunches of consistently high quality.

Crawford was served by a staff of friendly, cooperative, and congenial custodians. Mr. Blackburn led a team effort to beautify the school grounds. The group's diligent work was reflected in Crawford's clean and well-kept campus.

The many secretaries at Crawford found ample work in managing a flood of paperwork precipitated by Crawford's large student body. The good-natured secretaries compiled the daily bulletin, maintained student records, processed attendance files, took care of administrative duties and details, and distributed information to 3,600 Colts.

Cafeteria workers prepare delicious meals for faculty and students.

Campus Employees Served Crawford and the Colts

Friendly custodians work to keep Crawford in top condition.

With all of Crawford's paperwork, a secretary's job is never done.

Acknowledgements

Individualism was the key to the 1968 CENTAUR, to put into effect the more modern facets of yearbook style and theory. Recognition must be given to the people who, though behind the scenes, helped with the 1968 CENTAUR:

To the CENTAUR Staff members who designed and produced the yearbook,

To Mr. Francis Linderman, advisor, who prodded the Staff on to more original work,

To Mr. Burton Nestor and Mr. Dave Young of Busco-Nestor Studios for their valuable photography service,

To Mr. Wiley Westerfield and Mr. Jim Neyenesch of Neyenesch Printers, Inc., for the printing of the CENTAUR,

To the Smith Pacific Company for the production of the cover,

To Mrs. Irene Johnston who handled the finances,

To the administration and faculty for enduring the many interruptions,

And to the many individuals who fill the pages of the 1968 CENTAUR.

The Staff hopes that you will treasure this 1968 CENTAUR as much as they do.

Sincerely,
Carol Knott

Bradley,
I have always considered us tight friends and I hope we always will be. Out of all the "you know what's" I have known you are truly one of the best.
I hope we can keep in touch in the future, if I'm not dead by then with all this crap I do. Good luck always and I know you'll succeed. See you soon. Bye

Love,
Jimmy Myers

Bradley,

a very nice young man who I have enjoyed knowing at high school. You have a very sweet personality, keep it always. I wish you all the success and happiness in this "sick" world has to offer. Keep your brains and your determination and you will go far. Love always

Brad
All I can say is that you're one of the most litchen guys I've ever known. That's from the bottom of my heart.
Good luck always!
Please stay groovy.

Love
John

Brad - I've realized that the greatest thing about graduation is that you just know that you will never see half - no almost all these people again - and we only have 35 left you to get to know people. I don't know why - but I'll tell you - I'll be there. See this - just don't. I think I'm sorry - anyone Brad - you are a great person and I wish you the best forever. Good luck to you, because he is not dead, forever. I have you.

Autographs

Bingham,

I know I've given you a thrill by letting you take me home everyday but its nothing. Best of luck always

Love
Cheryl

you are one person whom I will never forget. I had been a real friend to, when I had problems, you listened understandably. I hope you will always be around. I wish you a good friend but the very best in life. You have a kind heart that will ~~take~~ ^{best} you far. Don't let anything get in your way of school. Don't end up like Bruce. Keep your cool at all times. But have fun. I'm very proud to have you as a very good friend. Remember me always as I do love him. I hope to see you this summer after the baby.

May God Bless You and Keep you safe

Brad,
Hasn't physics been
fun? and calculus too!
Good luck in the future,
and above all have fun!

Bradley, June 7, 1968
I don't know if I can finish this before the bell rings. It's been great being in the same math class last year and in calculus
and physics this year.
Best of luck at U.C.S.D
and I'll see you at Revelle. I hope your future shall be both fulfilling and fun.
